Tackling a complicated physics problem, sitting on the bench, reacting for the camera, making up for a play: What's it all about?

Different moods, different places, different people: all are a part of that way of life we call school. For twelve years, school has been the focal point of our experience. Twelve years of achievement and failure, of work and fun have passed. These years we shall never have again.

What's it all about? We hope that this book, through the memories it will stir and the thoughts it may provoke is a help to each reader in answering that question for himself.

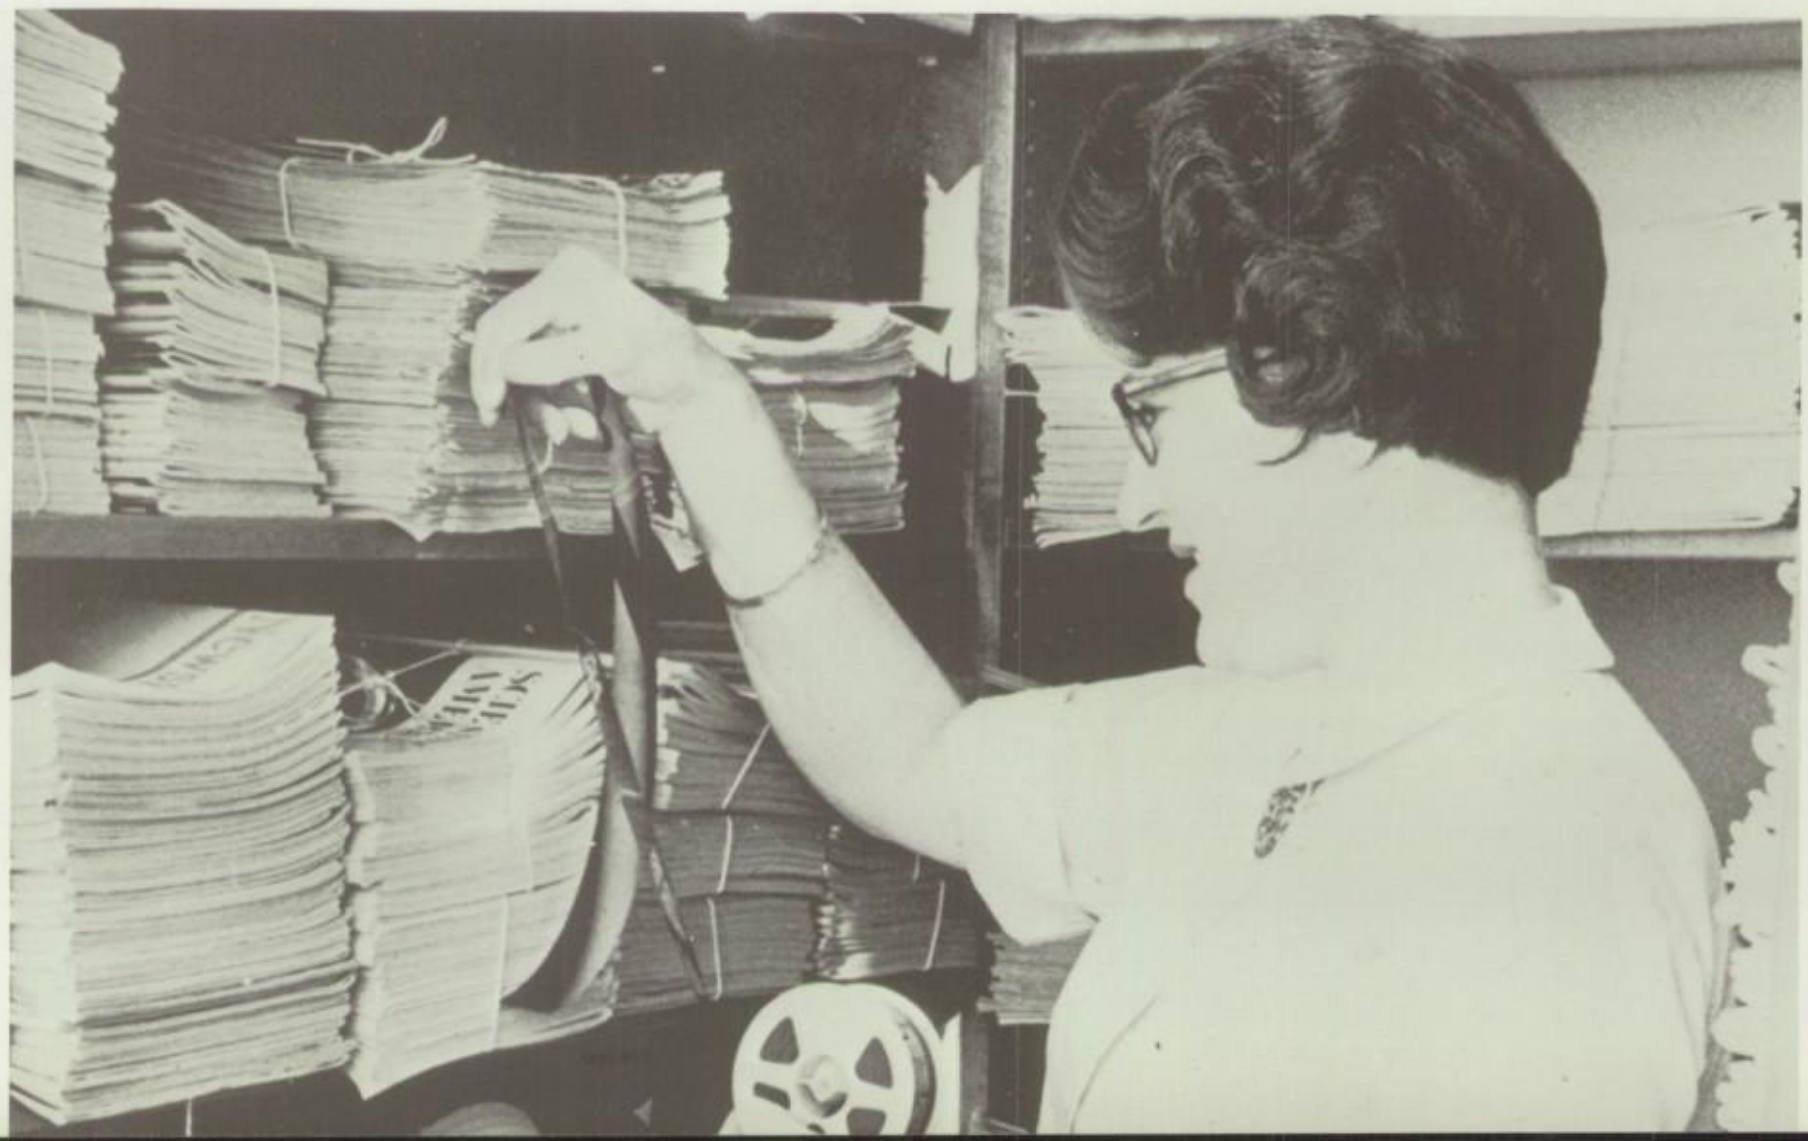
Microfilm Is Placed In Library

One of nine new faculty members, Mr. James Clay taught science and geography in the junior high.

Mrs. Halverson shows how much storage space is saved with the new library microfilm equipment.



Time-honored opening-day activities found Marvin Barndt and Chet Sapalio helping Mr. Kissinger and Mr. Trent in the book room.

New faces and equipment highlighted the academic year as nine faculty members and several educational aids were added to our school system.

Remedial reading, established for junior and senior high students, allowed problem readers to improve their skills individually in a specially equipped laboratory.

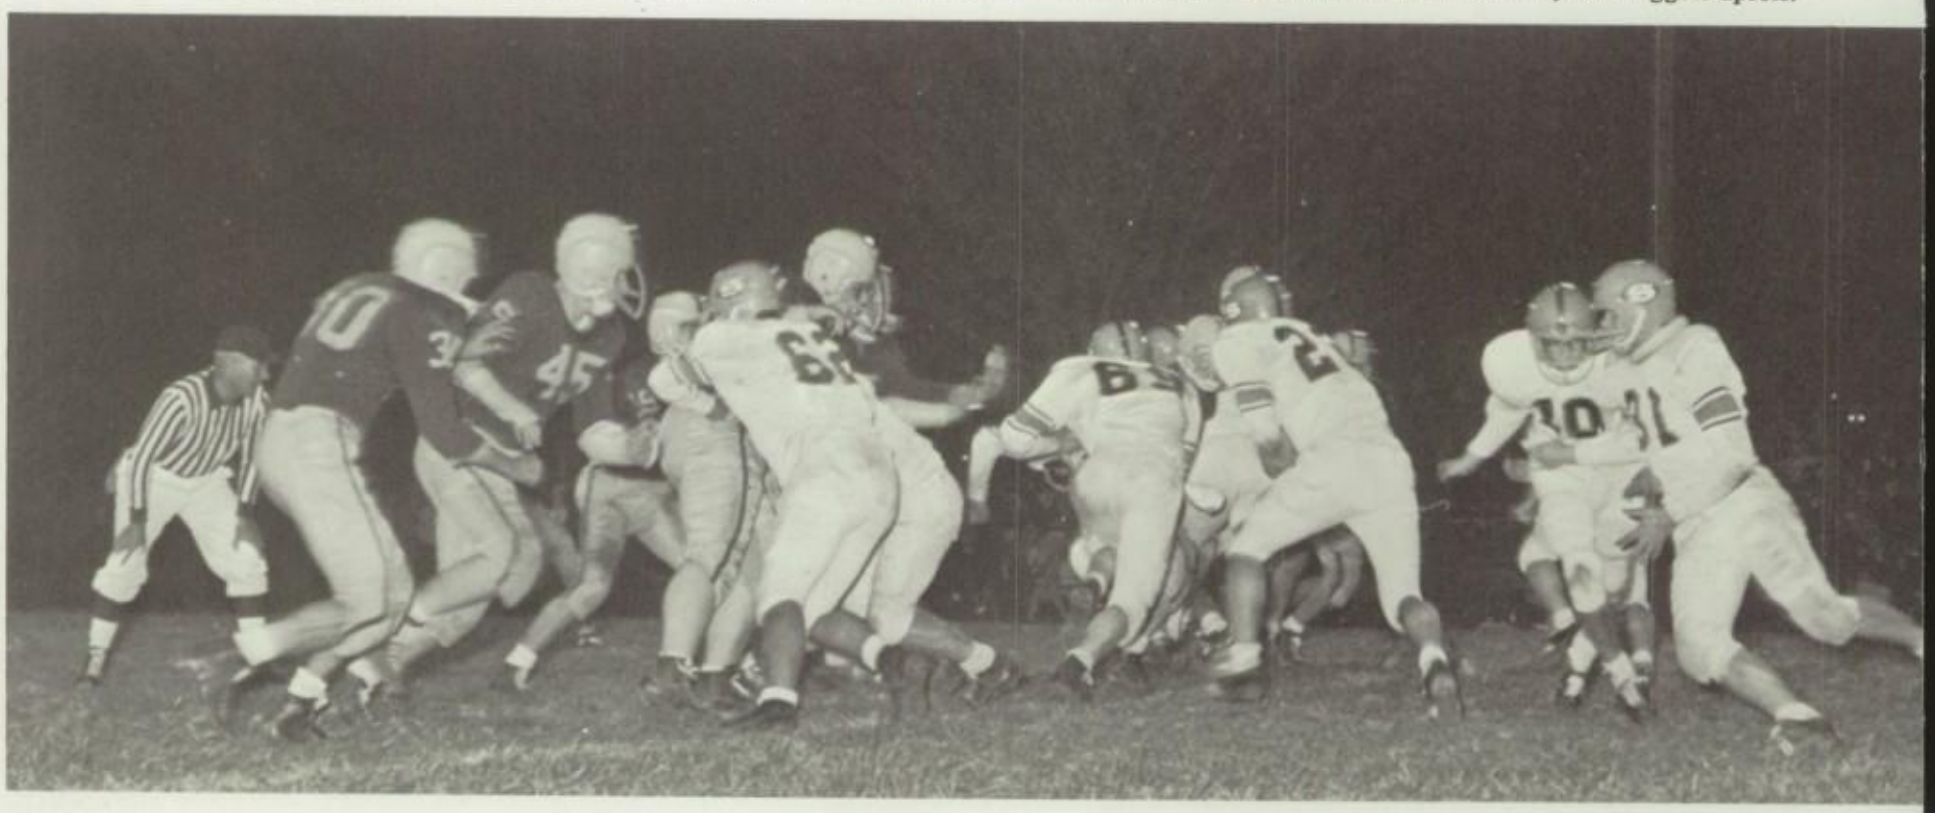
Miniaturization and computerization came to the senior high. Microfilms of periodicals were obtained for the library, along with Recordak microfilm reading equipment. Under this system, students have reference material at their fingertips, while the library saves valuable storage space. Via teletype, the science department gained greater access to the G.E. 225 digital computer at Altoona High School. As the service expanded, Mr. Baer and Mr. Dirienzo traveled to Altoona for concentrated studies in programming. This information they passed on to their students, who used the equipment with increasing regularity.

Publications progressed as the Eagle's Echo and the Eaglet purchased a Beseler 45M enlarger for the darkroom. The new equipment does better work more economically than before. Many of the black and white pictures in this section and throughout the book were printed on the new enlarger.

Mr. Baer prepares a program on the teletype for the G.E. 225 in Altoona.

Head Football Coach Carl Waugaman bowed out after his twentieth season, having compiled an astonishing record as coach at Somerset.

The Eagle offensive unit bursts into action against Westmont. SAHS beat the favored Hilltoppers in one of the year's biggest upsets.

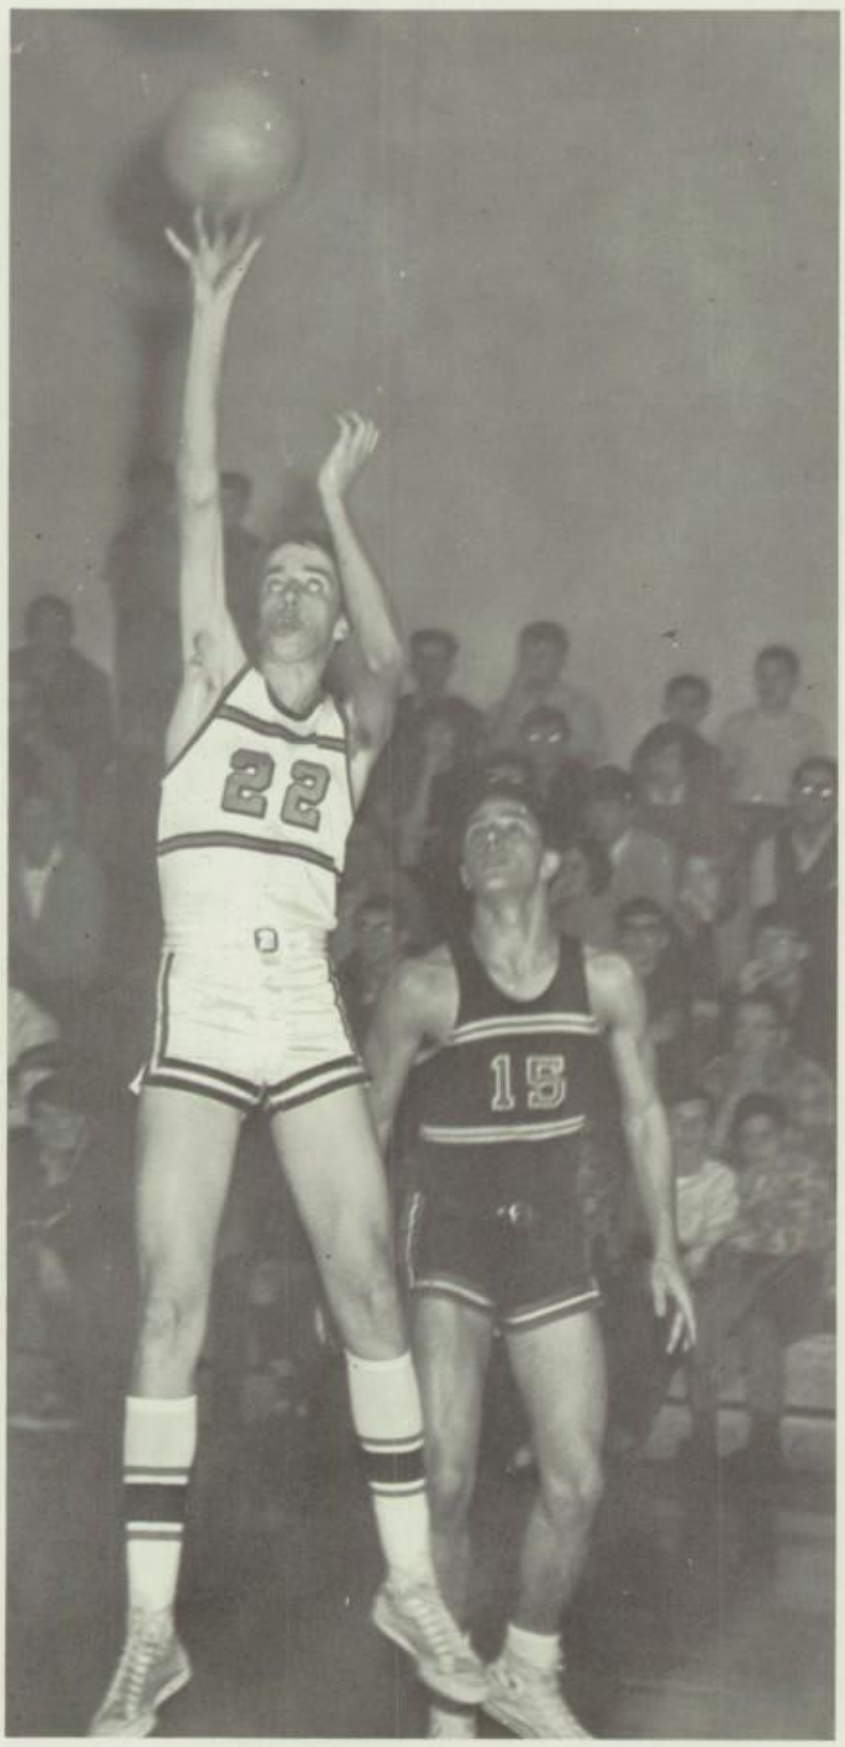


Untried Coaches Head Somerset Squads

This year's athletes continued the tradition of hard work and determination at SAHS. There were few boys of extraordinary physical dimensions; so, in football, basketball and wrestling, emphasis was placed on speed and agility. A new passing attack in football and pressure defense in basketball added to the excitement of Somerset fans.

News was made off the field as well as on. Wrestling Coach Joseph Maslak stepped down to let James McCall pilot the 1967-68 matmen. Head football coach Carl Waugaman announced his retirement after his twentieth season at Somerset. One of his assistants, Wilson Weaver, was named his successor.

Tony Oppegard adds two points to the Somerset total against Meyersdale.



The Eagles' first home wrestling match ushered in a rough-and-tumble season.

Henry Zuccolotto reads that he has been elected to the Johnstown Tribune-Democrat All-Scholastic football team.

Somerset Games Broadcast Over WVSC

Sports-related activities and services maintained their high degree of popularity with Somerset fans. Pep assemblies, designed to develop greater student interest in athletic events, were held regularly throughout the year.

Important Somerset football and basketball games were broadcast over radio station WVSC-FM. SAHS graduate Eugene Stayrook and his partner Mike Patrick brought games to life for Somerset fans who could not attend the contests.

The SAHS Marching Band brought new excitement to football half-time shows. The addition of a color guard and the planning of Mr. Jeffrey Damms and Mr. William Deremer, student music teachers from Indiana University of Pennsylvania, helped Mr. Singer's charges to perform complicated maneuvers to pop music numbers like Winchester Cathedral and Georgy Girl.

Parent's night activities included the traditional lining up of players and parents before game time. Marvin Barndt and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Barndt are shown here.

Student pep assemblies were held regularly before football, basketball and wrestling events.

Clubs Earn Title "Service Organizations"

Eaglet photography editor Marilyn Weaver puts finishing touches on the yearbook staff's entry in the Library Club's door decorating contest.

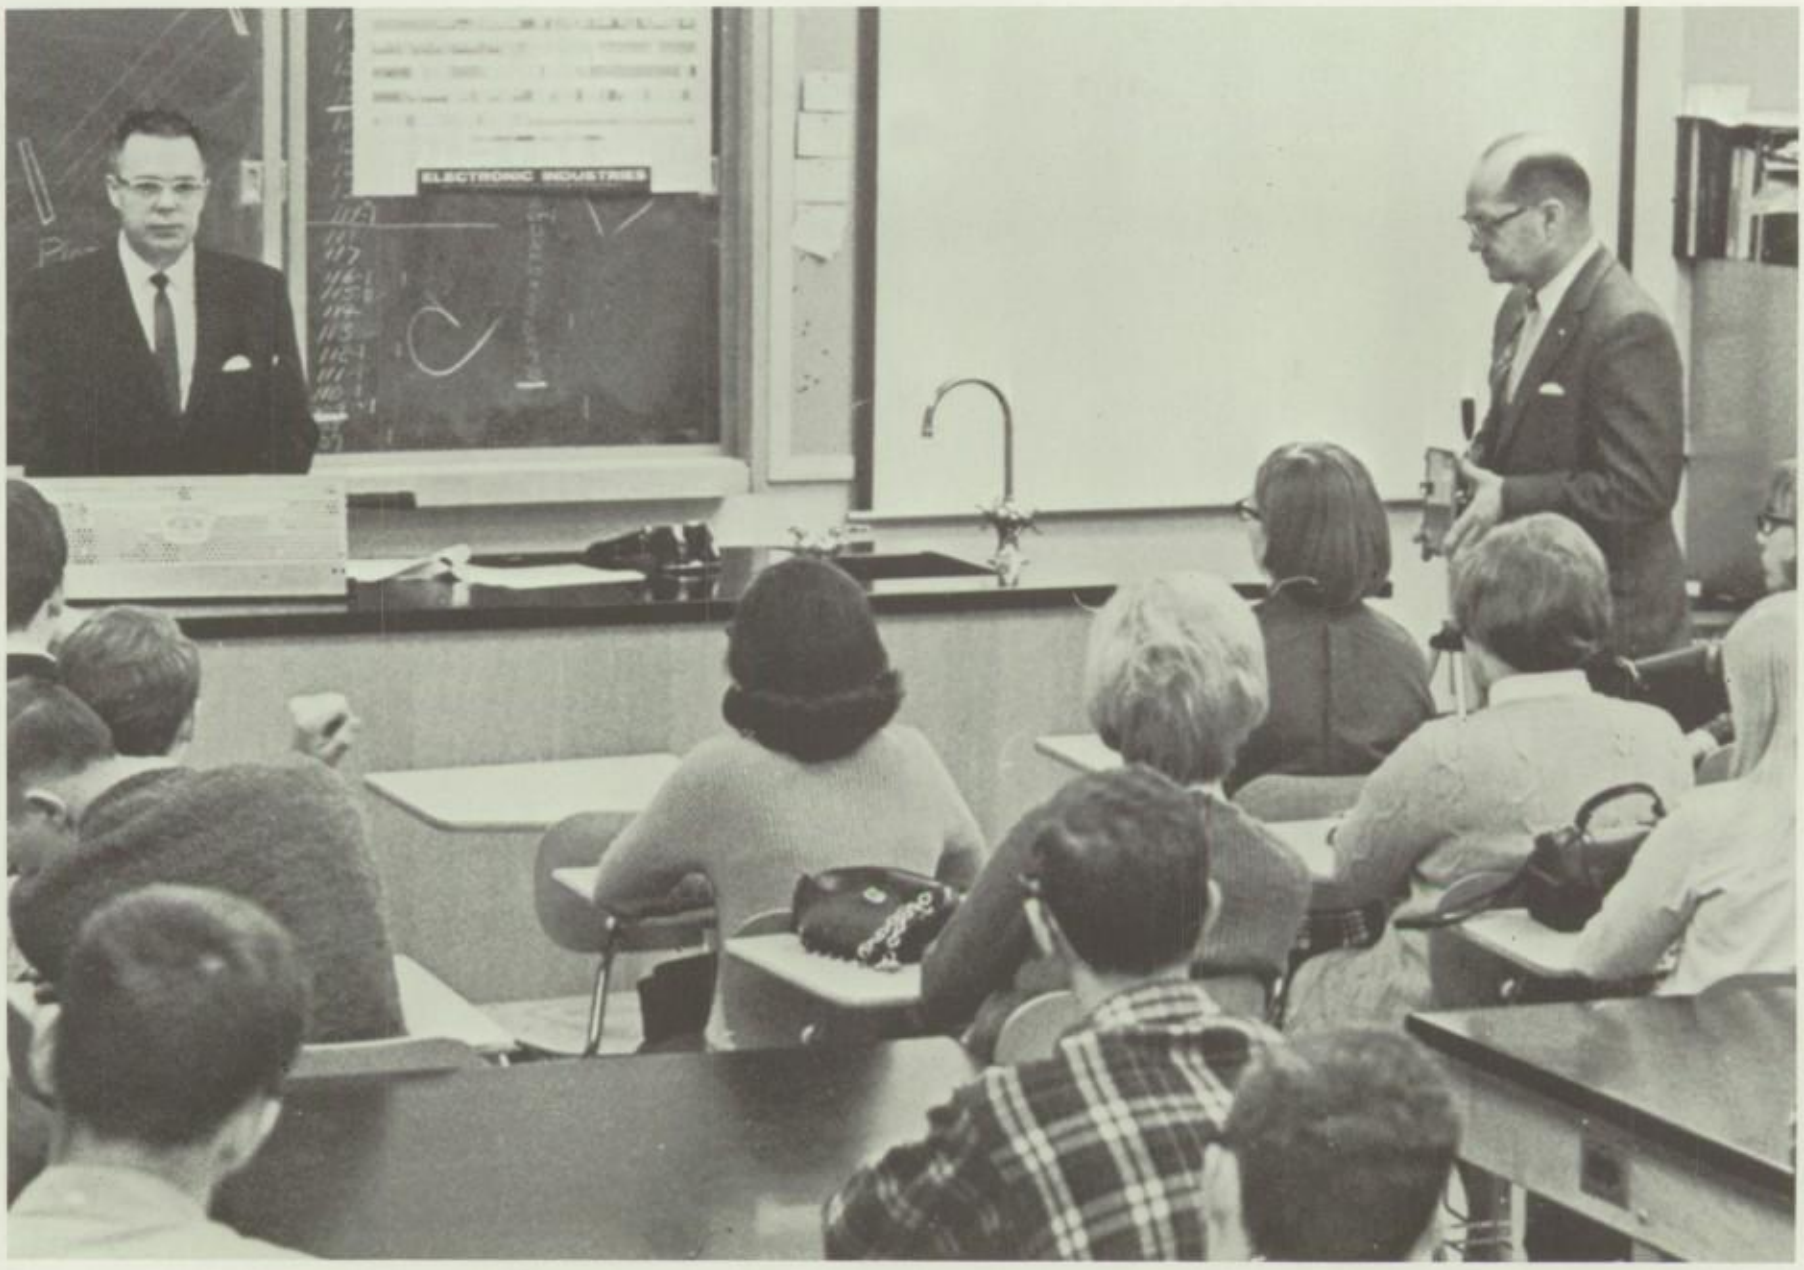
With the advent of the large sophomore class, clubs grew in size and scope of activity.

Service organizations, such as Student Council, Tri-Hi-Y and Key Club undertook money-making as well as community service projects. The Student Council maintained its foster child Juanito Gambito, a Filipino adopted two years ago. The Tri-Hi-Y's annual CARE drive netted funds to be sent around the world by the international aid service. Closer to home, the Key Club sponsored a county-wide "Get Out The Vote" campaign, designed to stimulate voter interest in the general election.

Language clubs helped students gain a deeper understanding of the various languages offered at SAHS by study of the cultures of the countries in which the languages are spoken. Deutcher Verein members performed portions of Goethe's Faust at the language assembly. French and Spanish clubbers reviewed their expeditons of last summer to Montreal and Mexico, while many members made plans to return individually to visit our international neighbors.

Vocational clubs helped prepare members for careers in agriculture, homemaking, teaching and business.

Key Clubbers Mike Long, John Johnson and Wendell Miller prepare to hand out the booster license plates that the club sold as a fund-raising project.



Mr. Swanson and Mr. Shaver, from General Telephone Co. in Erie, demonstrate the laser to Science Seminar members.

FFA member Joseph Adder stacks trees for the club's annual Christmas tree sale.

Somerset County District Attorney Alexander Ogle speaks during the Veteran's Day assembly.

Sally Critchfield plays the organ while students file into the auditorium for an assembly program.

Mr. Laurence Perkins directs the Indiana Symphonette during their concert at SAHS.

Symphonette, Choir Perform For SAHS

An expanded assembly schedule brought new entertainment from outside sources and from within SAHS.

The Indiana Symphonette from Indiana University of Pennsylvania and the mixed chorus from the University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown added Somerset to their concert schedules. A Somerset Auto Parts distributor sponsored a program featuring world-famous automobile racing driver Art Malone, who spoke about the precautions taken by the world's best drivers, as he presented methods students could use to improve their driving skills.

The language clubs presented an assembly with skits in French and German.

French Club members perform their skit for the language assembly.

In Appreciation of the contributions he has made to us as individuals, as a class and as a school, we dedicate the 1968 EAGLET to Mr. Paul D. Beal.

Mr. Beal has taught art to many members of the class of 1968 since their elementary years and has worked closely with us as class sponsor since our sophomore year.

However, our reasons for this expression of appreciation go beyond tenure and class sponsorship. Mr. Beal has shown himself to be a creative, concerned instructor, interested in the welfare of his students. As "resident artist" at SASHS, he has co-operated in producing distinctive posters, class play sets and program covers for school-related functions. The Eaglet staff has an additional reason for this gesture. Mr. Beal designed the cover of this book.

Through his media, he has helped to define the personality of our school. To tell us what it's all about.

ACADEMICS

What's it all about?
The pursuit of learning is our primary reason for being.
Skilled instructors offer various courses to prepare us for any careers we may have planned.
We are here to learn.

Board Of Directors Approves Sidewalk

Somerset Area's school board studied and sanctioned qualified money-making plans proposed by high school organizations to finance their projects. They also permitted approved field trips.

Endorsement of building projects such as this year's approval of a sidewalk along South Franklin Street for senior high students and plans for an addition to the Maple Ridge Elementary School demonstrated the board's vigilance in school improvement.

Our principals and supervisors were responsible for the actual administration of our school system, but they could function only on the basis of the broad guidelines advanced by a progressive board of school directors.

Guidance Staff Is Increased By One

After policies were decided and adopted by the school board, they were carried out by the administration of each building.

Members of the secretarial staff in the senior high and the junior high performed many office duties, including typing daily bulletins and filling out transcripts for college-bound students.

Mrs. Emma Hay served as guidance counselor for seventh and eighth grade students while Mr. Richard Colliver advised the freshmen and sophomores. Mrs. Pauline Glessner helped juniors and seniors with college entrance examinations, applications and exploration of job opportunities.

Head dietician Mrs. Grace Carey saw that students in all buildings received nutritious and attractive lunches.

School nurses assisted doctors with physical examinations of students and of candidates for athletic teams.

Mrs. Mary Manges, school psychologist, helped students examine and improve their emotional equilibrium.

Modern Biological

Microbiology, botany, zoology, and genetics were among the subjects dealt with by the sophomore biology students at Somerset this year. For those who chose laboratory biology many forms of life were studied through experimentation.

With the aid of classroom lectures and experiments junior chemistry students gained knowledge about the formation and composition of matter. Introductory slide rule procedures were also taught.

Senior physics students conducted exercises in mechanics, heat, sound, light and magnetism to attain an understanding of their physical properties.

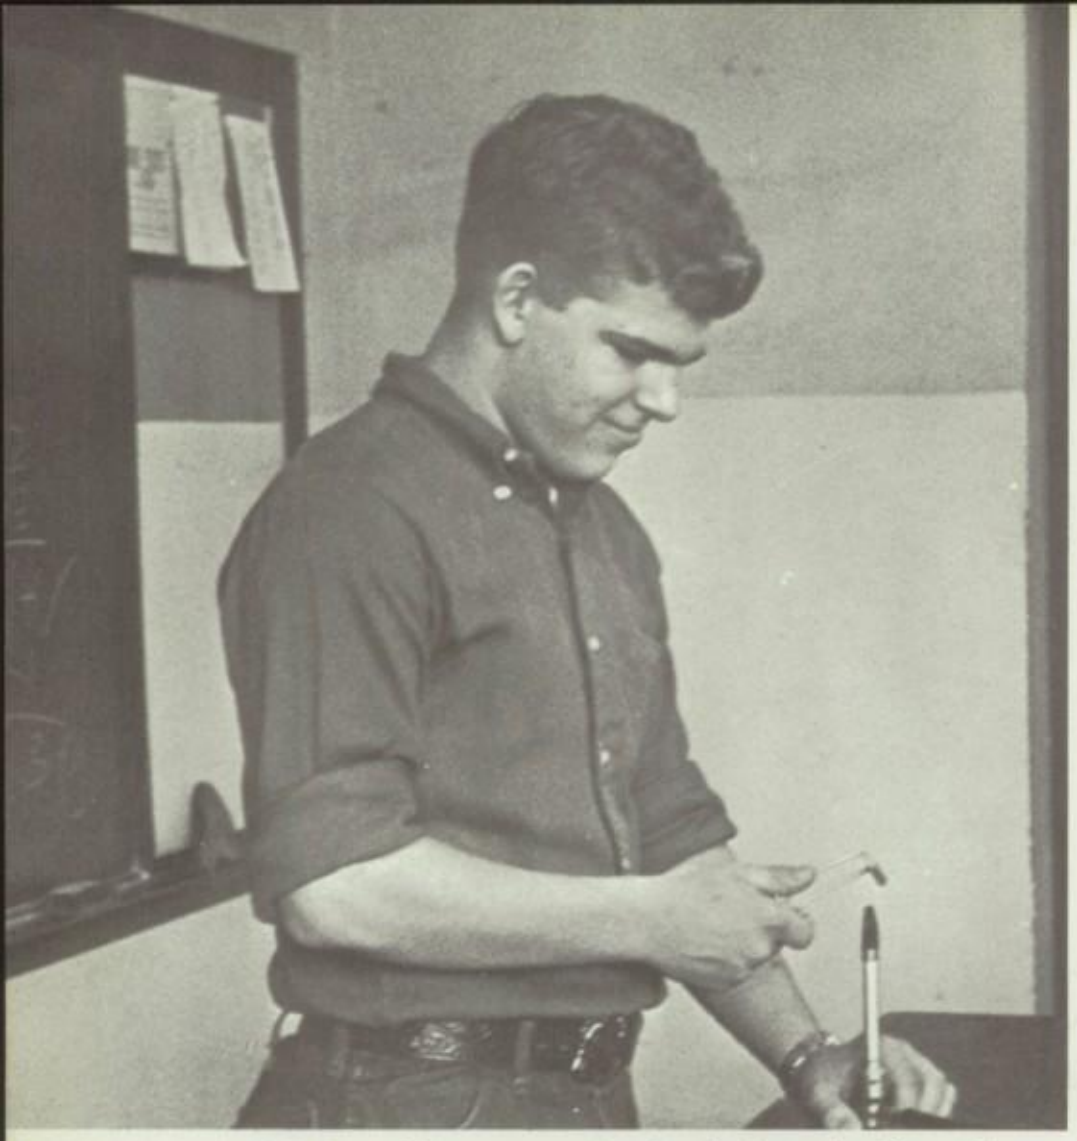
Chemistry and physics students could this year solve their calculations more quickly and accurately with the use of the computer teletype which allows direct communication with the computer center in Altoona, Pa.

Advanced work in electronics was presented to qualifying science students as a special elective.

For those wanting to broaden their science background without specialization in chemistry and physics, physical science was available.

Anatomy was an elective offered particularly for those students entering nurse's training.

To present a thorough yet general view was the object of the junior high science department. All three grades had a complete program, with limited experimentation in weights and levers for the freshmen.



Carefully Barry Mapes removes the wing tip from a hot Bunsen burner so that he can use the direct flame.

Under Mr. Pyle's watchful eye Scott Boyer assembles a two-pulley system while Amy McClintock pays close attention in preparation for her turn.

Procedures Implanted By Microbiology

Examining algae through the miscroscope in lab biology are Joyce Ludy, Becki Gnagy, Kirsten Hanks and David Griffith.

In the chemistry supply room Mr. John Dirienzo advises Craig Miller to use sulfuric acid instead of hydrochloric acid for his lab problem.

After their third period classes, Mr. Rhodes and Mr. Fridy beat a retreat to the faculty room to regain their energy for fifth period lectures.

Geography Included In Social Studies

Mr. Alva Sayler is caught by the camera through his door pane as he illustrates a point in his geography class.

Ancient world history, including that of Greece and Rome, was taught to seventh graders at Somerset. Eighth grade studies in history this year consisted of American history with special emphasis on Pennsylvania's past. Freshmen learned about the rights and duties of the American citizen through their civics classes.

Sophomores learned of the histories, governments and peoples who shaped the major nations of the world. Juniors studied American history in detail. Comparative study of world governments and research into economics constituted the senior course.

In senior high social studies, students learned that history is not static, but is constantly re-evaluated in the light of current events. On the other hand, contemporary developments were often understood best by placing them against the background of the past.

Geography was an added course in the social studies program. It was presented as a semester course in eighth grade and as a full-year elective in the senior high.

Fiction, Non-Fiction Widen Viewpoints

Sophomore English was composed of grammar, composition and general literature. Students were also given guidance in choosing either a general, vocational, commercial or double-track academic English course for their junior and senior years.

Grammar, vocabulary, composition and public speaking constituted the course of study for juniors and seniors taking academic, vocational or general English or journalism. Business English, consisting of grammar, public speaking and spelling was also offered.

Junior American literature classes studied biographies, fiction and poetry written by famed American writers.

Seniors in English literature examined works by Chaucer, Shakespeare and Orwell, among others. Stress was placed on comparing world literatures to that of England.

Junior high students were taught fundamentals of the grammar, composition and literature which prepared them for more advanced courses. Reading was offered to seventh and eighth graders. This course included the SRA reading lab, which diagnosed and improved a student's reading ability by questions from varied samples of graded literature.

Junior High Program

Senior high mathematics consisted of Math II, a continuing study of modern math; Algebra I, the study of unknowns and formulas; Algebra II, in which quadratic equations and logarithms were examined; Modern Geometry, the study of theorems and axioms; and Trigonometry and Solid Geometry, which applied theorems and axioms in solving triangles on both a concrete and an abstract plane.

Students interested in furthering their study of mathematics took advanced math, a course including advanced trig and elementary calculus. Members ot this class, qualified students of proven ability, comprised the Mu Alpha Theta Club.

Pre-nursing students were offered a course in Nurses Math in which they learned to work expertly with metric and English system conversions as well as fractional and decimal equations. They also practiced making solutions of the correct percentages.

Basic concepts of mathematics were taught in the seventh grade, while eighth graders studied the fundamentals of modern math. Freshmen could pursue either Algebra I or Math I, a continuation of modern math.

Faculty Manager Mr. Urbain sells tickets for the Westmont football game before he begins his daily routine of math classes.

Supplies Needed Skills For Future Math

Mr. Kuhlman shows his third period trigonometry class how to operate the calculator to solve complex math problems quickly.

Languages Present Cultural Assembly

Mrs. Mary Withrow, Junior High Spanish, French

Mrs. Colette Sherren, French

German, Spanish, French and Latin were offered to Somerset Area students this year. Studying these languages helped prepare students for college by giving them a wider cultural background and a base for possible language careers.

In the junior high, Spanish was introduced in a nine-week exploratory course for seventh and eighth grade students. Freshmen were offered the first level of the language of their choice. New texts stressing conversation were used in the French I classes.

German classes were increased by eighty-five students in the junior high. Two student teachers, one for each semester, assisted students with German assignments.

French, Spanish and German were offered at four levels, while Latin II and Latin III were available to students who wished to finish their existing programs in Latin before it is deleted from the language program.

Mr. Edward Robertson explains their duties at Cambria Savings to Bonnie Hostetler and Phyllis Pritts during Work Experience Week.

In the recently installed dictation lab, Nancy Lephart, Cyri Alder, Patty Cresswell and Barbara Miller attempt to increase their individual shorthand and transcription rates.

Installed in 1967, the dictation lab allowed students to transcribe through the use of individual earphones and tapes. Thus, class members were able to progress in shorthand and transcription at their own rate, releasing more class time for advanced instruction. This addition was the subject of an article written by Miss E. Marie Brant and published in a national trade magazine sponsored by I.B.M.

Giving business seniors a chance to practice in actual situations in the community, Work Experience was scheduled for office practice and clerical practice students during the weeks of January 22-26 and April 22-26.

General business, an overall study of business procedure, was taught to business education spohomores.

Typing techniques were offered to academic students as well as to commercial students. Notehand, a condensed course in shorthand, was offered to academic students. Shorthand was open only to business students.

Methods of bookkeeping, taught to juniors and seniors, enabled students to keep business records or to advance into further accounting study.

Juniors studied business math, a course pertaining to the fundamental mathematics involved in the operation of a business.

Business law and Business English, offered to seniors, enabled students to learn the principles of law and communication in the world of commerce.

Office and clerical practice gave students experience in situations much like those found in commercial and professional fields.

Sales students learned to handle merchandise from a proprietor's viewpoint.

Copying the blueberry muffin recipe for their next cooking class are Michele Mosholder, Carol Wentz and Marcia Shellenberger.

Boys interested in vocational and technical training at Somerset High selected either the industrial vocational or the vocational agriculture course.

Industrial offerings were divided into auto mechanics and machine shop. During this year both divisions received new equipment. Through the compliments of General Motors, the auto shop obtained a V-8 engine display, new carburetors and generators. Two lathes and a milling machine were added to the machine shop, which operated in an actual industrial set-up.

Advanced technology farming, farming management and off-farm work were covered in vocational agriculture.

Wood and metal shop and mechanical drawing were also available as electives to interested students.

Home economics classes gained a new look with the addition of an all-male class. Twelve senior boys learned to cook and sew in a special general home ec course created for boys.

Child care, home budgeting and interior decorating were taught along with cooking and sewing to vocational and general home economics girls. Nutrition, a course especially designed for pre-nursing students, was offered for the first time this year.

During their nine-week vocational block boys of the junior high worked in either wood or metal shop on assigned projects, while girls began the basic study of home management.

Advanced Art, Art Craft

Somerset junior high students participated in a nine-week art course where they were introduced to graphics, architecture, ceramics and plastic painting. Ninth graders this year were permitted to work in any field of their choice for six weeks and then were required to submit a research paper on the subject.

Presented to the students of the senior high was a diversified look at art, stressing understanding of the basic principles involved.

Jewelry casting was introduced this year. Art activities included weaving, sculpturing and abstract painting. Art students created program covers for the class play, the maple princess contest, the Christmas choral program and the spring concerts.

Underclass artists spearheaded decorating plans for the Soph-Senior and the Junior Prom while seniors designed and executed the stage set for the senior class play.

Music Appreciation, a new course added to Somerset's curriculum, was this year's highlight of the senior high music program. For the first time, students in the senior high could continue their study of music beyond the three courses required at the junior high level. Subject matter included the lives and works of contemporary composers and the composition of music.

Junior high music consisted of the required two-period-a-week program for every student, amplified by such electives as band, orchestra and chorus.

Complicated formations were performed by the senior high band during the halftime shows of football games. Marching in local parades and presenting the spring instrumental concert also were part of the band program.

Baccalaureate and Commencement were enhanced by the orchestra and a special portion of the chorus, which also participated in the spring concert and the Christmas program.

Sports Stimulate Lifelong Interests

Girls in the junior high began the term with soccer. Physical fitness tests followed and were repeated in the spring for comparison of individual achievement. Volleyball, basketball and tumbling were included to teach co-ordination and teamwork.

Beginning the term with soccer, junior high boys continued with apparatus, which included trampoline, parallel bars and still rings. Wrestling and track were also offered.

Senior high girls learned the basics of field hockey, basketball and impressionistic dancing.

Boys in the senior high began the term with speedball. They also participated in basketball and archery. Stress on these sports made it possible for each boy to develop continuing interest in at least one sport.

Tests in the spring informed students of their level of physical fitness. Trophies were presented to the boy and the girl achieving the highest score in junior high and senior high.

Sophomores Learn First Aid, Anatomy

Health was taught in a nine-week course in the junior high. Students learned about good grooming habits, proper dieting and exercise, and the causes and cures of common diseases. They also became acquainted with the bones of the body and the structure and function of the brain.

Sophomores were presented a bi-weekly course which covered the human body and its systems, bones and major organs, with special emphasis on the heart. Effects of alcohol, tobacco and drugs on physical and mental faculties were discussed. Details on the major infectious diseases also occupied class interest.

Health dummy Resuscie-Anne served as a victim on which students practiced mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Sophomores also learned to apply splints to fractures and to treat burns.

Sportsmanship on the highways with emphasis on safety was stressed in driver education this year. In an all-school assembly Art Malone, professional race car driver, presented a film showing professional drivers' use of courtesy and alertness to lower the possibility of accidents.

Sophomores used the text Sportsmanlike Driving for classroom study of highway safety. Juniors and seniors drove either standard shift or automatic cars in which, while receiving actual road experience, they learned the traffic laws of Pennsylvania. After completing the course and passing his state test, each new driver was awarded a certificate in defensive driving.

Janice Sible has a long way to go before she takes her driver's test muses Mr. Pfeffer.

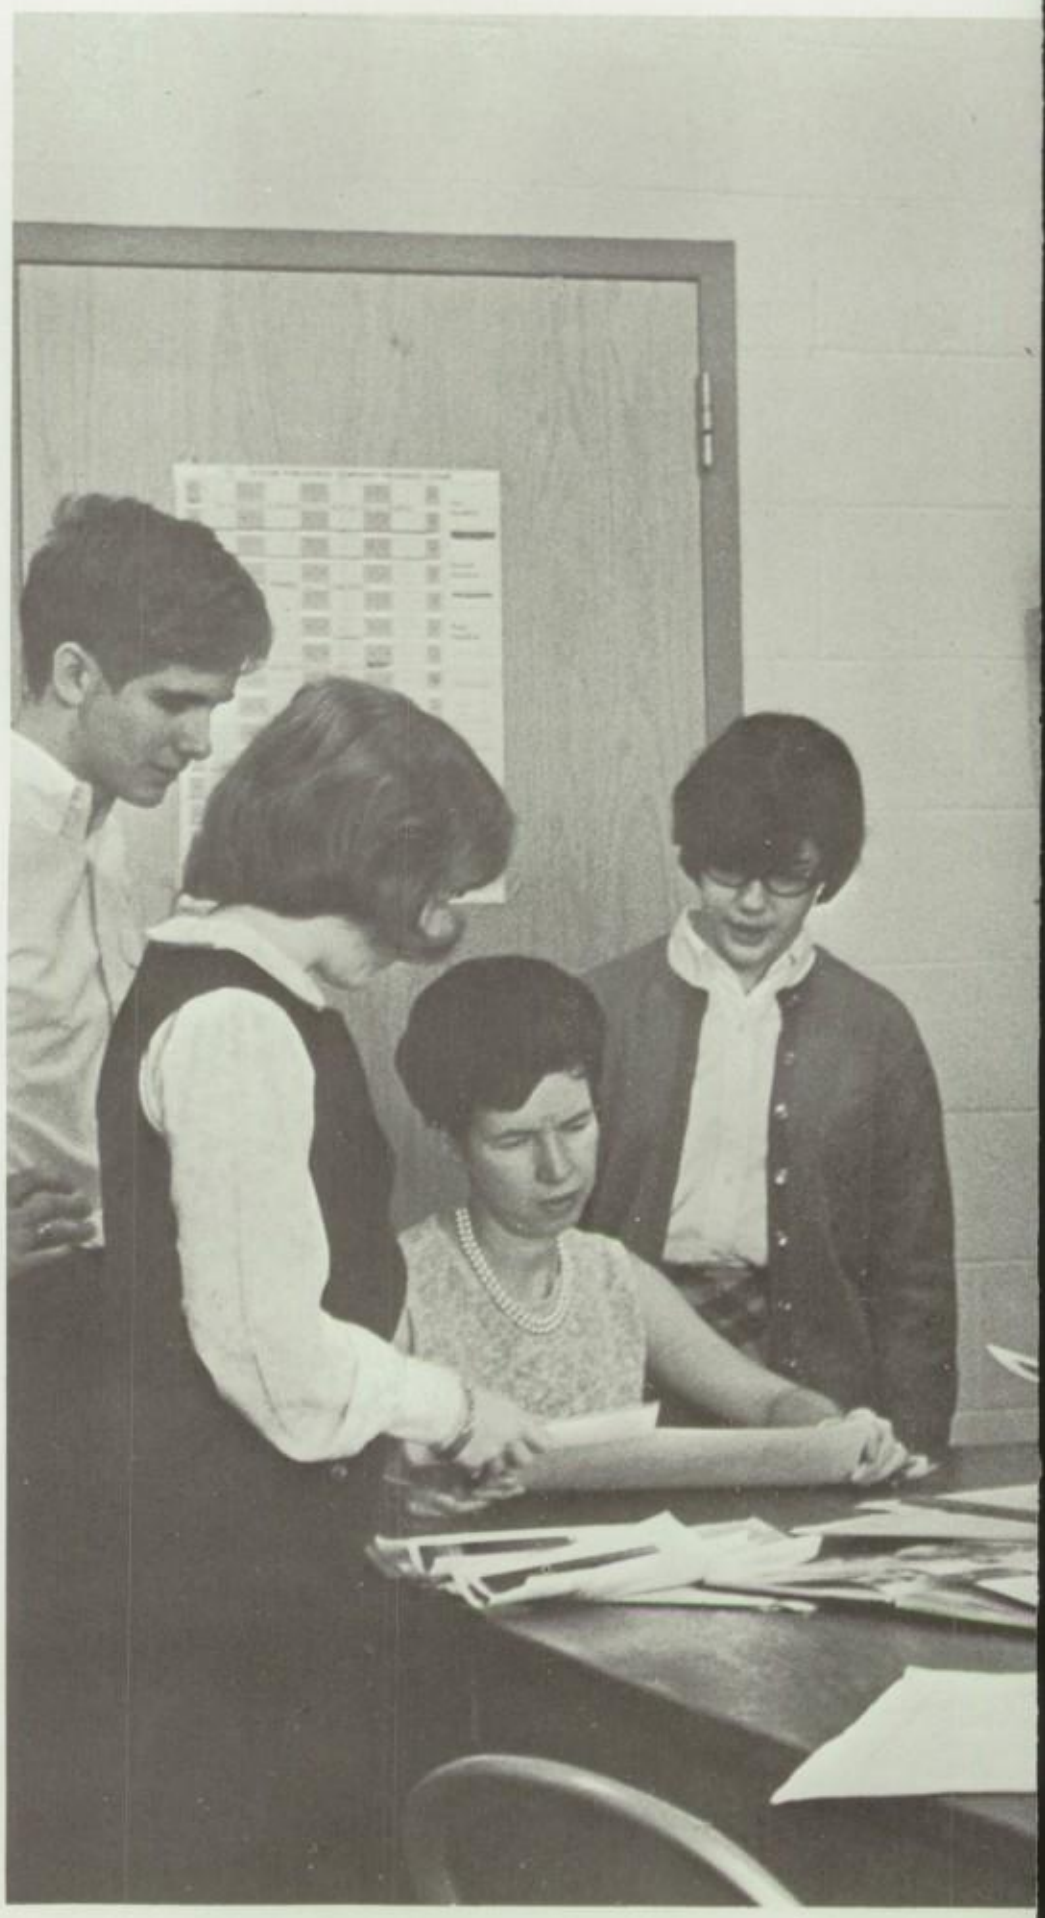
Eaglet index editor Sharyn Walker confers with photography editor Marilyn Weaver on identification of two Dennis Barrons.



Adviser Mrs. Phyllis Cindric confers with Eaglet staff editors during a progress meeting in the yearbook journalism office.

Consecutive Scholastic Medalist Award

Honors achieved by the 1967 Eaglet included an A rating from the National School Yearbook Association and the Medalist citation, which is the highest award granted by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Heading the 1968 Eaglet literary staff were Editor-in-Chief James Cascio, Copy Editor Amy Pucci and Adviser Mrs. Phyllis Cindric. Jim and Amy began their terms by attending a yearbook journalism workshop at Kent State University in August.

Yearbook II students composed the literary staff, which was divided into seven sections: Academics, Seniors, Activities, Underclasses, Index and Photography. Originality and sustained quality were among the 1968 Eaglet literary staff goals.

Another important responsibility was fulfilled by the business staff. Business Manager Wanita Walters, Assistant Business Manager Dolores French and Advisor Miss Marie Brant officiated over the annual senior magazine sales, the selling of patron listings and the yearbook subscription campaign, which this year netted 1475 yearbook orders. Business staff members were active in all of these projects.

Echo Rates International Honor Award

News editors Margaret Otto, Diane Talbert and Beth Scharf enter the newspaper room for some early morning work.

Newspaper Journalism II students published the Eagle's Echo, a monthly publication designed to keep faculty and students abreast of school news. Circulated in both the junior and senior high, the paper highlighted individuals and departments, in addition to covering club activities.

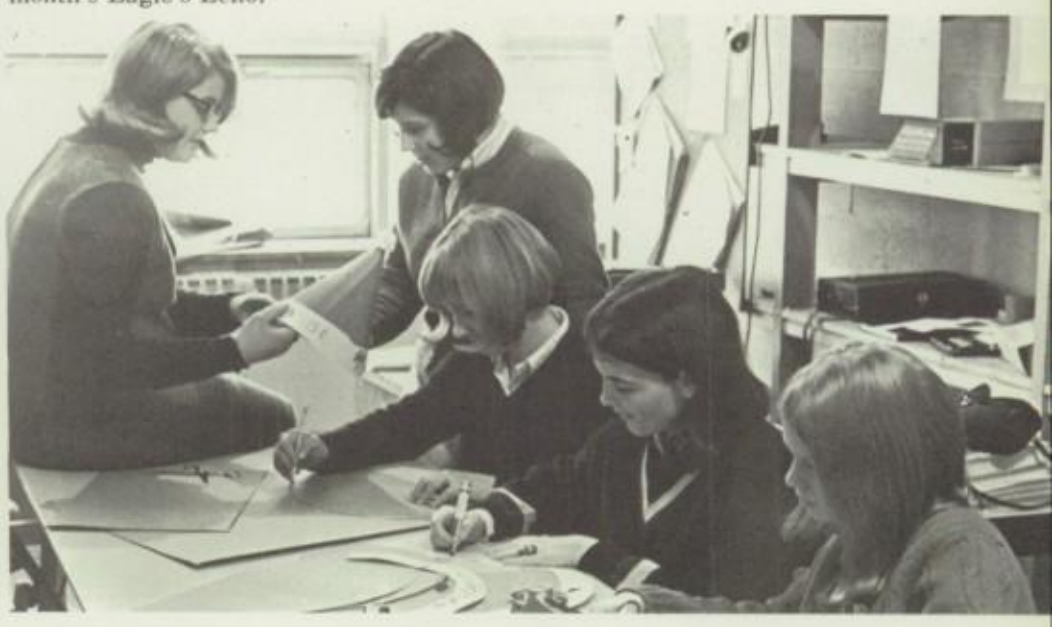
Student opinion was presented in the editorial section. Definite results of the newspaper's influence were seen when the Somerset Area School Board became aware of the hazards of walking on South Franklin Avenue. Legislation was passed by the Board to construct a sidewalk from the athletic field to the senior high before 1969.

Students also had a chance to express their views in a monthly poll question. "Eagle's Giggles", submitted by Journalism I students, reported humorous classroom happenings.

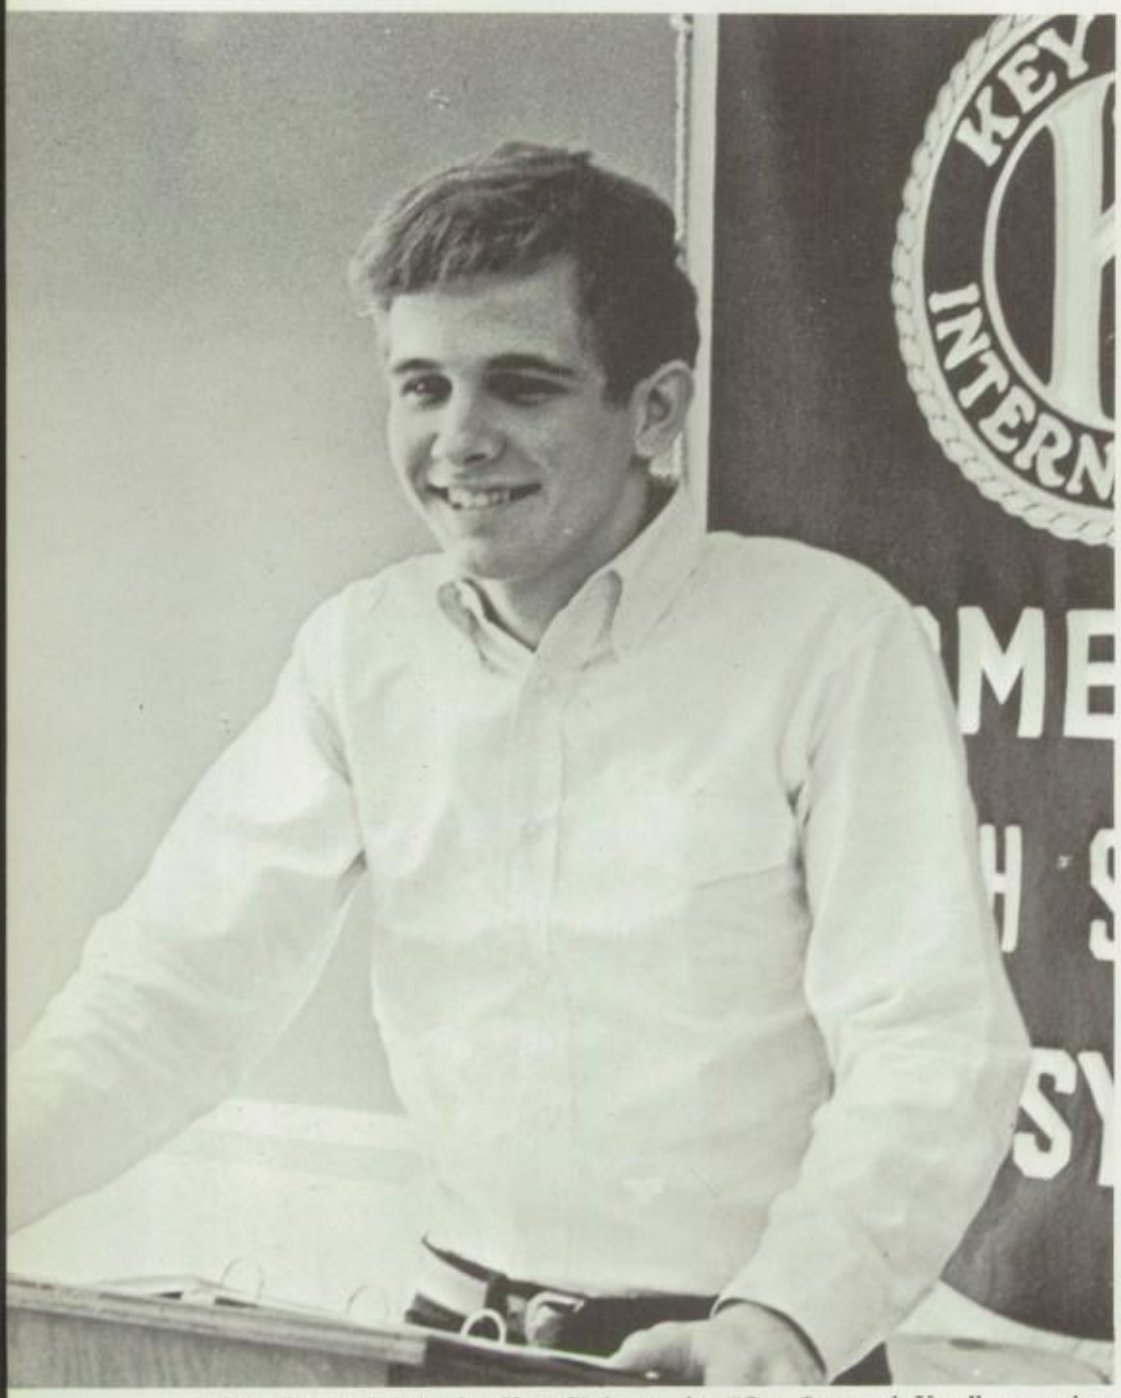
Editor-in-Chief Scott McClintock headed publication work with the help of Mr. Jay Christner, staff adviser.

Honors received by the 1967 Eagle's Echo were the A rating and International Honor Award presented by the Quill and Scroll for distinctive achievement in scholastic publications and the All-American Award presented by the National Scholastic Press Association.

Members of the circulation department make hats to advertise this month's Eagle's Echo.



Key Club Rewards Outstanding Citizen



Jim Cascio briefs the Key Club on the "Get Out and Vote" campaign.

Under the new direction of Mr. John Dirienzo, the Key Club endeavored to fulfill its aim of serving the school and the community. This year's club featured the presentation of a speaker at each weekly meeting.

Key Club assisted the Somerset Kiwanis Club in bell-ringing for Christmas charity. Other projects included managing the concession stand during home football games, holding a bake sale and selling "Somerset Eagles" license plates. In November the club held its annual Parent Appreciation Banquet. Mr. L. Harrington Gibbs was presented Key Club's first Outstanding Citizenship Award for his many contributions to the youth of Somerset.

Highlighting this year's activities was the "Get Out and Vote" campaign held during October and November. Posters distributed throughout the county and spot announcements over radio station WVSC encouraged county voters to participate in this year's election.

Every month a member representing Key Club attended a Kiwanis meeting as a guest of the sponsoring group.

Fred Oehling, Tony Oppegard, Don Derencin and Marvin Barndt clean the school's trophy case as a service of the club.

Key Club officers include Wendell Miller, vice-president; Barry Day, secretary; (seated) John Johnson, president; and Martin Beech, treasurer.

Preparing for the Tri-Hi-Y's annual Care drive are Antoinette Anodide, Wendy Whipperman, Vicki Darr, Verna Bevers and Sally Driscoll.

Tri-Hi-Y Backs Successful Care Drive

To create and extend high standards of Christian character were the goals of the Tri-Hi-Y. Major activities of the club included the annual Care Drive, augmented by a bake sale and a picture sale.

During the second semester the Teen Talk program helped members with personal problems. In addition, various speakers introduced interesting topics for club discussion.

Tri-Hi-Y membership reached a record high this year under sponsor Miss Ruth Barkley. Sixty regular members and thirty associate members were organized and led by four major committees: the service committee, the money-making committee, the worship committee and the program committee.

Presiding for the 1967-68 school year was Barbara Pile. Sally Driscoll, vice-president; Debbie Barron, secretary; Carol Gerhart, treasurer; Vickie Brant, chaplain; and Nancy Houser, program director, served in other executive positions.

Tri-Hi-Y officers Barbara Pile, Sally Driscoll, Debbie Barron, Carol Gerhardt, Nancy Houser and Vicki Brant organized and headed the year's activities.

Miss Ruth Barkley and Barbara Pile look over the minutes from their last club meeting.

Officers Geraldine Reffner, Joan Barnett, Amy Lutz, Sally Rankin and Leslie Kunkel go over the script for the club's induction ceremony.

Club Aids County Measles Vaccine Drive

Mrs. Ida Mae Barnett distributes posters to Donna Whipperman and Charlene Walker for the "End Measles Campaign."

Members of the Health Careers Club helped with the Somerset County Measles Vaccine Drive in September and furnished a needy family with a turkey dinner at Thanksgiving. At Christmas members of the club highlighted their year's activities by preparing favors and providing entertainment for the residents of the County Home in Berlin.

Two meetings were conducted each month, one of them an evening meeting with guest speakers who briefed students on various careers in the health fields. The other was a business meeting held in the morning before school.

Purposes of the Health Careers Club were to find ways to better serve the community and to promote interest in health careers.

Officers were Joan Barnett, president; Amy Lutz, vice-president; Leslie Kunkel, treasurer; Geraldine Reffner, secretary; Sally Rankin, historian; and Donna Whipperman, program chairman. School nurses Mrs. Ida Mae Barnett and Mrs. Shirley Keafer sponsored the club.

Sherry Saylor and Jane Morocco gather the donated canned foods that will be given to a needy family for Thanksgiving.

Candy Stripers Gail Stutzman and Randee Ankney help 95-year-old Mr. William Bittner down the hall at the Somerset Community Hospial.

Serving lunch to patients is a weekly assignment for Donna Diehl and Lorraine Stutzman.

Suzanne Oppegard and Marcia Hay help to amuse their young patient by giving him a blackboard to play with.

Workers Earn Pins

High school girls between the ages of fifteen and eighteen were eligible to act as assistants at Somerset Community Hospital evenings and weekends. Making beds, feeding helpless patients and serving juice and crackers after meals were a few of the duties of the Candy Stripers.

Earning a cap for fifty hours of voluntary service in the hospital, a pin for one hundred hours, and a bracelet for one hundred fifty hours were partial goals of the girls, but the Candy Stripers were best rewarded by the satisfaction derived from knowing that they had provided comfort for many patients.

Being Candy Stripers helped many of the girls decide which profession in the field of medicine they wished to pursue.

Gail Stutzman hastily readies a bed for the arrival of a new patient.

FHA Club Sells Home-Made Christmas Candy

Halloween, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Valentine's Day Faculty Teas were held by the Future Homemakers of America. Members served as babysitters for parents who attended monthly PTA meetings. In football season they cleaned the football field during their anti-litter campaign.

On December 8 after the Meyersdale-Somerset basketball game, the FHA sponsored a sock hop in the gym. Members cooked and sold 148 pounds of candy for their annual Christmas candy sale.

Officers attended the Leadership Training Program at Berlin. Mayme Stayrook and Mary Beth Mapes served as delegates to the State FHA convention, held at the Pittsburgh Hilton Hotel, while the entire club attended the FHA Degree Banquet on April 20th at Seven Springs.

Somerset's FHA won 13th prize for their demonstration "Flower Capers" at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

Darlene Stahl, Donna Sheeler, Sandy Kennell and Gloria Rhodes construct flowers to beautify their upcoming faculty tea.

Homemakers Linda Snider, Sandy Custer, Linda Holt and Mayme Stayrook get the Christmas spirit as they decorate their club's tree.

Serving tea for faculty members are Susan Jano, Hazel Thompson, Betty Thompson and Ruby Hoffman.

Roger Hay, Joe Adder, Jim Hay and Dalton Brant judge hay at the state FFA convention.

Future Farmers Plant Spring Flowers

Jay Shaffer and John Wagner make adjustments on a balky milk machine.

Future Farmers of America sold Christmas trees, spring flower bulbs, vegetable seeds and onion plants during the 1967-68 school term.

Spring flower bulbs were planted at the Friedens, Sipesville, Patriot Street and Union Street elementary school buildings.

Members participated in many contests. Among these were the Area Parliamentary Procedure Contest, the Area Public Speaking Contest, the Area Meat Judging Contest, county and state demonstration contests, the FFA Basketball Contest and the State Scrapbook Contest.

FFA members presented several radio programs over station WVSC, in addition to working for the Chapter Scholarship Improvement Award. The year's activities came to a climax with the annual FFA banquet.

James Hay and Lee Shaffer received the Keystone Farmer Degree at the State FFA convention. James Hay also served as the 1967-68 Somerset County FFA chaplain.

Donald Shaulis, Lee Shaffer and Kenneth Kountz plan the program for the annual spring FFA banquet.

Charlotte Baumgardner, Ruby Hoffman, Ruth Fisher and Linda Gnegy match library cards with books and magazines at the circulation desk.

Library Club Holds In-Service Training

District President Amy Pucci assigns Beverly Hochard, Janet Schimpf and Sandy Weyant their duties for the Cambria-Somerset Teen-age Library Conference.

Highlighting the Somerset Area Senior High Library Club's activities this year was inservice training at the Mary S. Biesecker Public Library in Somerset. This two-week program for the seniors of the club was held in the spring.

Each member of the club was responsible for two periods of work in the library each week. Committees also worked to arrange bulletin boards and counter displays in the library.

In the spring the club attended the Somerset-Cambria County Teenage Librarians Conference, at which senior Amy Pucci presided.

President Ruth Fisher, Vice-president Linda Gnegy, Secretary Ruby Hoffman and Treasurer Charlotte Baumgardner headed the club's activity program.

Preparing a new book for circulation is one task performed by Penny Ross and Betty Thompson.

Ski Officers Henry Parke, Kathy Baker, Antoinette Anodide and Edward Cook keep a hopeful eye on the season's first snowfall.

Ski Club Initiates Competitive Team

Planning a ski trip to the mountains of New England was the project that occupied much of Ski Club's attention. Skiing together several times a month at the group's home slope, Hidden Valley, as well as taking trips to other ski resorts in the area were included in the 1967-68 program. To promote safety on the slopes, the group was offered first aid lessons by Miss Elsie Mannweller of the Hidden Valley Ski Patrol. Ski Club organized a ski team to compete with other clubs in addition to acting as host for home races. Mr. Thomas Fridy was the club's sponsor. Officers for 1967-68 were Hank Parke, president; Edward Cook, vice-president; Toni Anodide, treasurer; and Kathy Baker, secretary.

Hi-Y Delegates Attend State Convention

Encouraging school spirit was one of the major projects of the Roof Garden Hi-Y Club. They showed their support of our team by posting pep signs on the day of athletic contests and by sponsoring a post-football-game dance.

Hi-Y was sponsored by Mr. William Kuhlman. Officers for 1967-68 included Ronald Schrock, president; James Tall, vice president; Donald Miller, secretary; Fred Oehling, treasurer; and Donald Barron, sergeant-at-arms.

At their weekly meetings members discussed the state constitution in preparation for participation in the annual state convention in Harrisburg. Representatives and senators, chosen from the local clubs, met in the state capitol and held a model meeting presided over by the district governor.

Donald Barron requests Mr. Kuhlman's approval of a Hi-Y announcement.

Donald Miller, Jeff Davis and Fred Oehling install a Hi-Y sign supporting our athletic teams.

Serving as Hi-Y officers for 1967-1968 were James Tall, Donald Miller, Fred Oehling, Ronald Schrock and Donald Barron.

Science Seminar Visits Celanese Display

Adviser Mr. Thomas Fridy discusses a recent Science Seminar field trip with Scott McClintock, David Neilan, Joanna Glessner and William Brubaker.

Originated in cooperation with the Joe Berg Foundation, Science Seminar was set up to encourage and develop scientific interest among gifted senior high school students in Somerset County. Science Seminar provided background experience and specialized training not possible in the normal classroom. Thirty-five students from twelve high schools participated in the 1967-68 program. Included among the seminar leaders was Richard Carter, division manager of the Allegheny Ballistic Laboratory of Hercules Inc. in Cumberland, Md. Three field trips were included in the twelve sessions. Participants visited the Celanese display in a Cumberland, Maryland, fiber plant; station WJAC-TV in Johnstown and the metallurgical laboratory at the Johnstown plant of Bethlehem Steel Company. Mr. Thomas Fridy served as program co-ordinator.

Members Examine Computer Potential

Sponsored by Mr. William Kuhlman, Mu Alpha Theta endeavored to promote scholarship, enjoyment and understanding in mathematics.

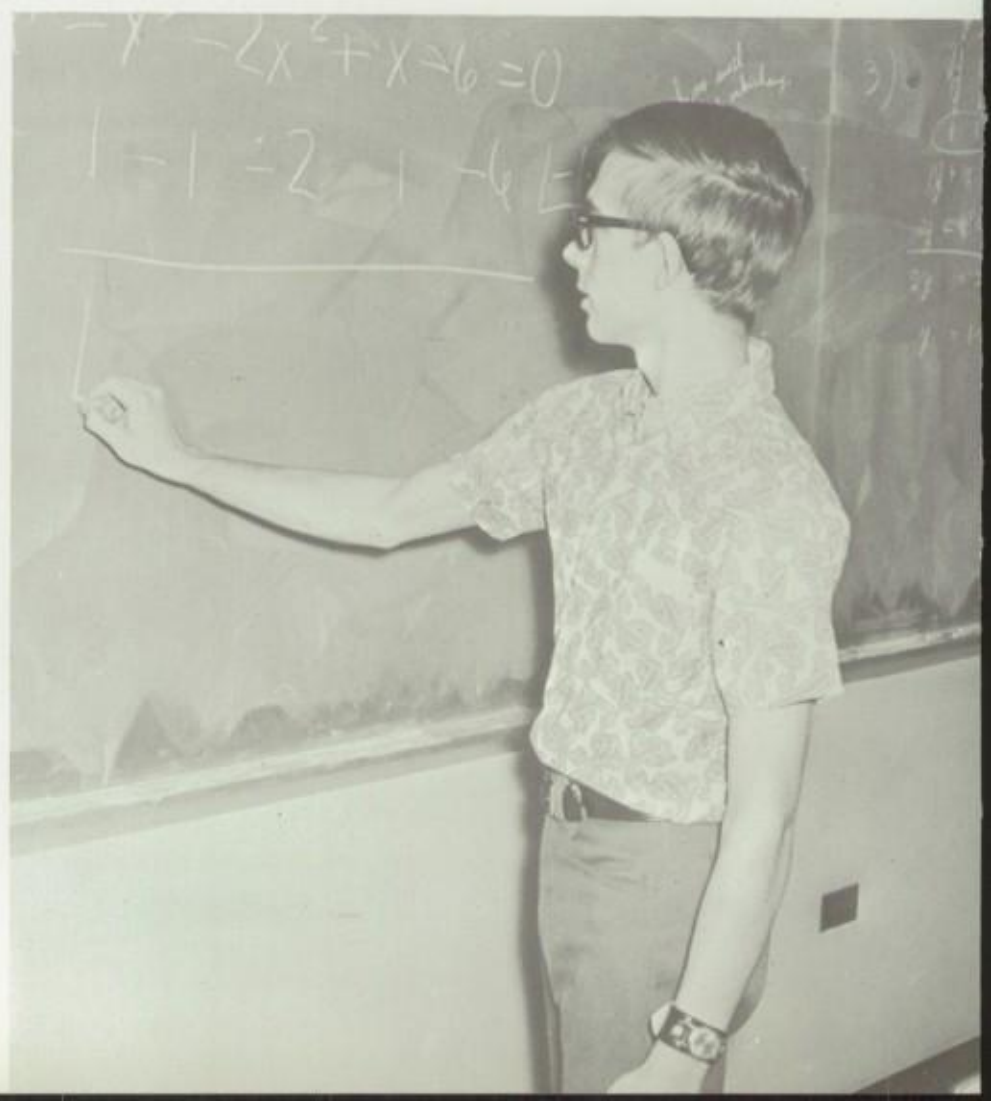
Students who had completed four semesters of college preparatory mathematics, who were currently enrolled in mathematics and whose general high school work was done with distinction were eligible for membership.

Bi-weekly meetings were held for the purpose of introducing lessons on new mathematical procedures prepared by individual members. Several field trips to Lamberson's Computer Center in Somerset were taken by the club.

President David Neilan, Vice-president Scott McClintock and Secretary-Treasurer Barry Day led the club in its activities.

Richard Friedline uses the calculator to help solve a difficult trigonometry problem.

Barry Day outlines an advanced mathematics problem for Mu Alpha Theta members.



Mrs. Pauline Glessner meets with FTA officers in the guidance office to discuss plans for cadet teaching day.

FTA Entertains Teachers At Annual Tea

Members of the Future Teachers of America toured the campus of the University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown on October 20. Other activities included the annual teachers' tea held during National Education Week and cadet teaching in the spring.

Among the numerous speakers the club heard were Mr. Walter Hart, Director of Admissions at Clarion State College; student teachers Mr. Stuart Estes and Miss Carolyn Fritsch from the Indiana University of Pennsylvania; and Mr. John McNaul, elementary supervisor.

Somerset was the home of the 1967-68 FTA County President, Carol Gerhardt. Club advisers were Mrs. Pauline Glessner and Miss E. Marie Brant.

Joan Barnett and Nancy Houser study a book to find tips on cadet teaching.

Susan Saylor points out the tuition figures for Penn State University to interested onlookers Jeff Bittner, Mike Matthews and Karen Ludy.

Members Prepare Christmas Packages

Mrs. Lilia Miller congratulates John Strandquest and Wanita Walters on their election as Mr. and Miss FBLA.

Busily preparing signs for the regional officers campaign are club members Mary Howard, Beverly Hochard and Margaret Barndt.

Renee Stanczk, John Strandquest and Heather Walker prepare a Christmas package to be sent to former students of our school now fighting in Vietnam.

Christmas boxes were sent to Somerset boys in Vietnam by the Somerset Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America. These packages contained candy, gum, stationery, playing cards, nuts and potato sticks.

Directed by Mrs. Lilia Miller, FBLA gave commercial students the chance to develop leadership and practice cooperation in the business field. Wanita Walters and John Strandquest were chosen by fellow members to represent the club as Mr. and Miss FBLA at the regional meeting held at Somerset on April 6.

As part of the induction services held for new members in March, the club celebrated its tenth anniversary. This affair, the Christmas Party and the picnic at Indian Lake were partially financed by the club's Easter candy sale.

F.B.L.A. officers were (seated) Phyllis Pritts, corresponding secretary; Nancy Lephart, recording secretary; (standing) Judy Miller, treasurer; Wanita Walters, president; and Diane Gasperine, vice-president.

Photographers Snap Superman Nominees

In order to assist the yearbook and newspaper provide full photographic coverage of school activities, the Camera Club was organized. With the addition of a three-lens enlarger to dark room equipment, the club's work is no longer limited to taking and developing pictures. One of the group's projects was assisting the Key Club by taking trick pictures of contestants in the Superman contest held at the Key Club's Super Dance.

Camera club was advised by Mr. John Dirienzo. Edward Troll held the office of president, while David Troll served as vice-president and Michael Kidd as secretary-treasurer.

Dave Troll inspects a new developing solution purchased by the club.

Club Presents Nine Programs On WVSC

Changing its air time from WVSC on Saturday mornings to WVSC-FM on Monday evenings was the major change in the Radio Club's routine this year. From 7:00 to 8:00 on the first Monday of the month the Radio Club broadcast school news, information about athletic events, records chosen by the student body, interviews with notable people of the school and radio plays.

Radio Club was sponsored by Mr. Jay Christner. Serving as president was Michael Kidd, with William Floyd as vice-president and Linda Cober as secretary.

Linda Cober, Bill Floyd and Mike Kidd served as Radio Club officers.

Mr. Jay Christner assigns Phyllis Miller her part in the monthly Radio Club program.

Selecting popular tunes to be played on the Radio Club's program is a pleasant job for Donald Barron, Danny Manges and Janice Kraus.

S Club Recognizes Varsity Lettermen; Patrol Sets Impressive Safety Record

Top: Harold Shaulis, David Woy, Scott McClintock, Douglas Berkley, Henry Zuccolotto, Jeffrey Johnson, Marvin Barndt, Tony Oppegard, Fred Oehling, Jim Cascio, Dave Neilan, Chester Sapalio Third: Barry Pritts, Jerry Stover, John Emert, Henry Cook, Ed Sicheri, Dean Carr, Earl Boyer, Charles Mitchell, Jim Welsh, Barry Pile, David Mapes, Clark Gross Second: Randy Cober, Rick Frazier, John Mayak, Jeffrey Pyle, Dave Walker, Don Derencin, James Tall, John Foor, Charles Francis, Ron Yutzy, Mike Matthews, Tom Lane Bottom: Douglas Platt, Ronald Yancey, Craig Miller, Wendell Miller, Dennis Hartman, Don Miller, Pete Urban, Dudley Urban, Don Zuccolotto, Steve Christner, William Barnhart, Brad Sechler, Lynn Dietz

Preventing accidents and traffic jams was the key function of the Safety Patrol. At home football games, boys from the patrol were on duty directing traffic and preventing tieups. For the first time, bus drivers were given the right to approve or reject the individual patrol boys assigned to their buses.

In 1922 the School Safety Patrol was formed by the AAA and since has achieved an outstanding safety record. Mr. Joseph Maslak served as co-ordinator of the 1967-68 Safety Patrol.

School Patrol members Blaine Trent and Harold Shaulis check their packing lot assignments for Friday's home football game.

Emphasizing good sportsmanship and school spirit, the S Club was created to honor varsity athletes earning a letter in interscholastic competition. Mr. Carl Waugaman sponsored the forty-nine member organization.

Requirements for lettering in varsity competition were: participation in more than half of the total quarters of the football or basketball seasons; accumulating eleven points, participating in a majority of the matches or winning a District V wrestling match; earning a total of ten points throughout the track season; or accumulating fifteen points, averaging 1½ points per match or winning a district golf championship.

Sponsor Mr. Joseph Maslak presents Charlie Smith with his School Patrol membership card.

French Group Adds Paintings To Room

Composed of the French IV class, the 1967-68 French Club sponsored a football dance, held picnics, attended a performance at the Mountain Playhouse and enjoyed a Christmas party.

In November a banquet meeting was held at Oakhurst Tea Room. Students enjoyed a demonstration on French foods by home economists from the Pennsylvania Electric Company in January. Performing a silent movie skit, The Mortgage Is Due, for the January language assembly was a highpoint of the year's activities.

Reproductions of French paintings were purchased for the French classroom to honor Mrs. Colette Sherren, club adviser.

In May the group presented an achievement award to the year's outstanding French III student.

Officers of the French Club were Pam Moyer, vice-president; Carol Gerhardt, treasurer; Marilyn Weaver, secretary; and Margaret Otto, president.

Club Presents Skit From Goethe's Faust

Deutscher Verein members Barbara Miller and Richard Freidline practice a German folk dance.

To increase understanding of the German people and their culture, students of third and fourth year German formed Deutscher Verein. At their regular monthly meetings the club attempted German folk dances and sang folk songs. They also attended a concert presented by the Johnstown Symphony Orchestra. One special project was a dinner meeting where German dishes were served, German customs observed and only German spoken. Participation in the language assembly was Deutscher Verein's main project. Here members sang, danced and performed a skit from Goethe's Faust.

Sponsoring the organization was Mr. John Harris, assisted by student teachers Mr. James Regel and Mr. George McGuire. Henry Cook served as club president, Barbara Miller as vice-president and Marcia Diehl as secretary-treasurer.

Serving as Deutscher Verein officers were Marcia Diehl, Henry Cook and Barbara Miller.

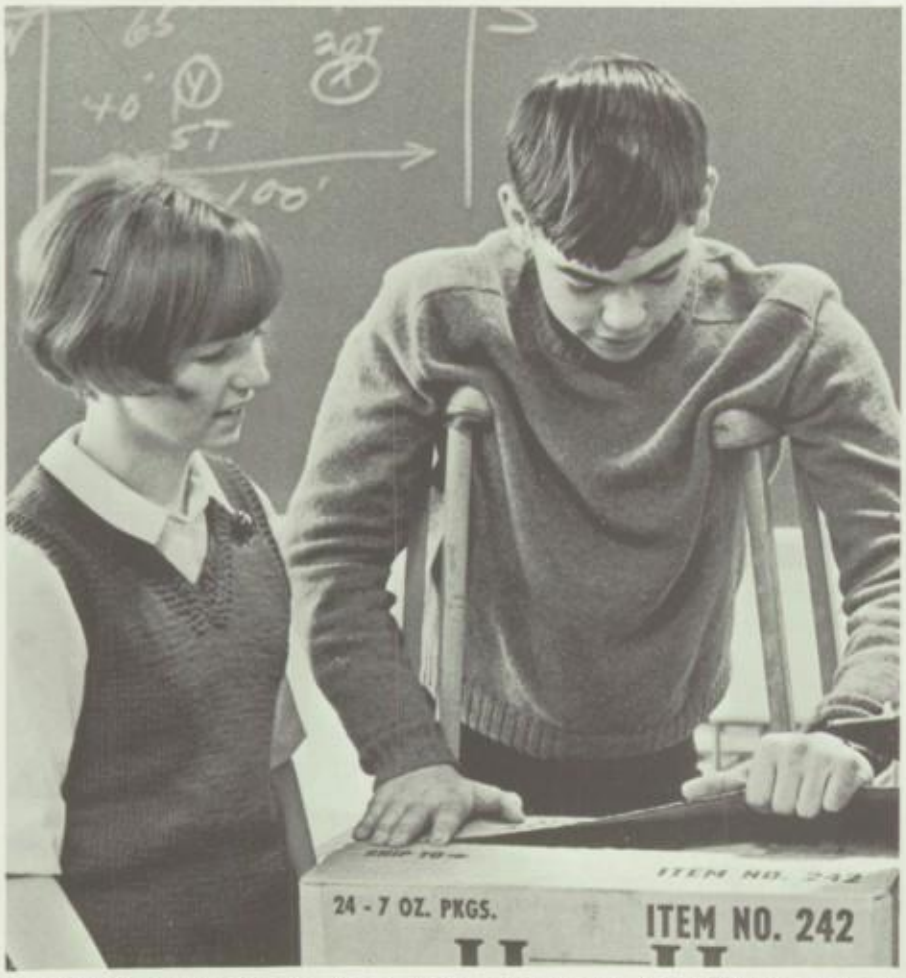
Arthur Tall, Mary Cascio and Suzanne Oppegard plan their clubs' next projects.

Clubs Hold Sales To Finance Travel

Working to increase interest in Spanish language and culture was the aim of the Spanish Clubs.

During the year the clubs held a bake sale, a pen sale, a candy sale, and a rummage sale in an attempt to finance interesting and educational trips. In April, members of the Spanish I and Spanish II Clubs journeyed to Washington, D. C., where they visited various governmental agencies. Spanish III students traveled to Pittsburgh in the spring to attend a cultural program. During Open House Weekend Spanish III club members displayed objects obtained on their trip to Mexico this past summer.

Heading this year's clubs were Spanish I President Arthur Tall, Spanish II President Suzanne Oppegard and Spanish III President Mary Cascio. Mrs. Antoinette Cesarone served as club coordinator.



Spanish II club members Mary Alice Powell and John Halverson open a box of candy which they will sell for their next project.

Michelle Baroni and Wendy Whipperman reminisce over pictures of their last summer's trip to Mexico.

Kathy Brant and Mrs. Antoinette Cesarone give Deloris Page tips on how to sell her pens for the Spanish III club.

Varsity cheerleaders were Gail Foust, Kathy Knepper, Geraldine Reffner, Susan Miller, Barbara Pile, Nancy Houser, Gail Gorman, Georgia Lichty and Beverly Brant.

Student council representatives chose varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders for the 1967-68 school year in the spring of 1967.

Comprising the varsity squad were four seniors and five juniors. Junior varsity positions were awarded to two juniors and four sophomores. Varsity cheerleaders voted Barbara Pile captain, while Mary Hauger was chosen junior varsity head.

During cheerleading camp in the summer of 1967, new cheers were learned and old ones revised. Vibrant, snappy routines were used to build enthusiasm throughout the student body at sports events and pep rallies. Cheerleaders hung pep signs in the halls and the main lobby before our football and basketball games and wrestling matches. Participation in the annual cheerleading contest at Rockwood climaxed the year.

Junior varsity cheerleaders were in charge of cheers at J. V. sports events. They also sold programs at varsity football games. Both squads were advised by Mrs. Ruth Coleman.

Junior Varsity cheerleaders included (back) Vicki Brant, Suzy Younkin, Sandy Benedict, (front) Denise Custer, Mary Ann Hauger and Connie Aultz.

Pep Squads, Performers Boost Spirit

Majorettes were (top) Beth Morocco, Beverly Runner, Jane Morocco, Marilyn Weaver, Sally Driscoll, (bottom) Patty Fisher, Joyce Ludy, Becky Gnagy and Jane Stoy.

Somerset Area Senior High majorettes and pompettes added to the effect of the band in parades throughout the county and at football game halftime performances.

Headed by Jane Morocco, the majorettes represented Somerset at the Tri-State Twirling Contest at Kennywood Park last summer. They entered competition for the first time in precision and routines. During the fall they entertained football crowds by twirling fire and hoop batons while doing jazz and charleston steps. The girls were also highlighted in the Spring Band Concert.

Under the direction of Pamela Moyer, the pompettes appeared as cowgirls in the annual Halloween parade. They displayed a wide variety of skills during the year with routines for flags, pom-poms, hands and even guns. Climaxing the football season, the girls danced the Can-Can Rockette style finishing with "THE END!" lettered on their bloomers.

New uniforms for the majorettes and pompettes were received in early spring.

Senior majorettes Sally Driscoll and Beverly Runner prepare for their last football half-time performance.

Pompettes included (top) Karen Ludy, Margaret Otto, Sally Rankin, Debbie Barron, (bottom) Verna Bevers, Pam Moyer, Nancy Miller and Sherry Saylor.

Members of the clarinet section keep in step and in tune for "Georgy Girl."

Somerset Area Senior High School Band marched in parades in the community and surrounding areas, performed intricate drills on the football field and displayed musical skill at concerts during the 1967-68 school term.

Student teachers from the Indiana University of Pennsylvania contributed to the 1967-68 band by working out unique drills for the football shows and by organizing special ensembles for concert band.

Outstanding musicians were selected to attend District Band at Johnstown in February and All-County Band at Somerset in April.

All bands in southern Somerset County were invited to attend the annual County Band Festival held at SASHS on April 22.

Marching in the Memorial Day parade marked the last band performance for senior members.

Directed by Mr. Chester J. Singer, the one hundred forty five band members worked continuously to improve the band's quality throughout the year.

President Wendell Miller, Vice-president Arthur Tall, Secretary-Treasurer Margaret Otto and Librarians Sally Rankin and Marilyn Weaver organized and supervised the group's activity during the 1967-68 term.

Mr. Chester J. Singer keeps an intent eye on the band's performance at a home football game.

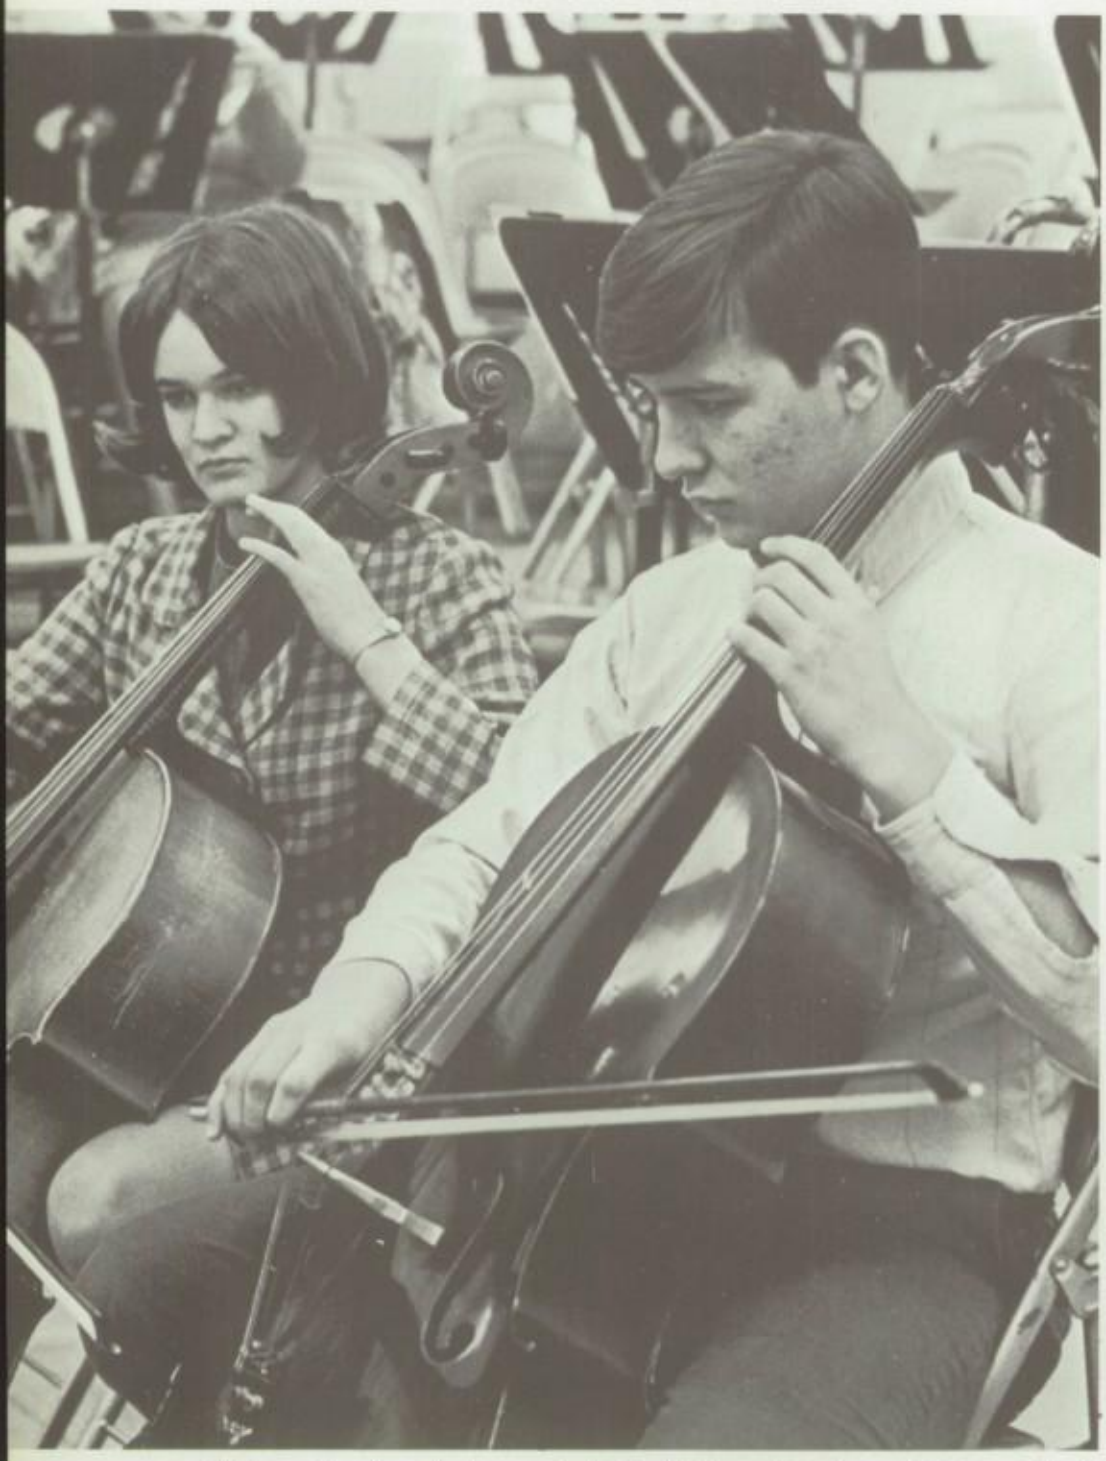
Playing "The Grand Trio for Flutes" are Leslie Claycomb, Patty Dickey and Diane Talbert.

Orchestra Performs In Music Festival



Somerset Area Senior High Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Chester Singer, took part in numerous programs throughout the year. Eight orchestra members represented Somerset at the Central-Western District Orchestra held at State College on February 18, 19, and 20.

Among the selections presented at their Spring Concert were Grundman's "American Folk Rhapsody" and Tschaikowsky's "Russian Choral and Overture." Concert Master Martin Beech was featured soloist. In addition to presenting a program at Maple Ridge Elementary School to encourage future orchestra participation, they were the only orchestra in the county to participate in the annual South County Music Festival, held at Somerset. Members also played at Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises.

Cellists Gretchen Berkey and Artie Tall practice to perfect a difficult selection.

Dolores French, Rochelle Neafach, Georgia Lichty and Linda Emert provide perfect harmony in the french horn section.

Mr. Chester Singer informs Patty Dickey, Christine Sawzik, Denise Custer, Mary Cascio, Patty Pacifico and Martin Beech that they have been chosen to represent Somerset at District Orchestra.

Roof Garden Folksingers warm up before singing for a school assembly.

Choir Sings At First Christian Church

Several special vocal groups were formed from the SASHS Chorus to provide entertainment for local programs and service organizations.

Composed of sixteen singers, a banjo, two guitars and a bass violin, the Roof Garden Folk Singers continued into their second year, gaining recognition throughout Somerset County.

A thirty-two member choir presented special music for the annual Week of Prayer at the First Christian Church in Somerset.

Featured in the Christmas and spring concerts, the Girls' and Boys' Octets also performed during the Somerset Maple Princess Contest.

Members of the Boys' Octet were (top) William Riggs, Nevin Miller, (third) Donald Derencin, Carl Fritz, (second) Richard Friedline, Martin Beech, (bottom) Danny Conner and John Johnson.

Here February 8-10

Under the baton of Mr. John Dice, the Somerset Area Senior High Chorus presented its annual Christmas and spring concerts. Numbers highlighting the Christmas concert were "O Holy Night", a solo by Danny Conner, and "Twas the Night Before Christmas", a tradition of the chorus.

"I May Never Pass This Way Again" was one of the featured songs performed at the spring program and also at the South County Choral Festival, held at Somerset High in April.

Somerset also served as host to the 1967-68 Central-Western District Chorus on February 8, 9, and 10. Representing six counties and forty-six school districts, the 184-member chorus was under the direction of Mr. Anthony Barresi, music professor at University State College of Fredonia, New York. Twelve students from Somerset Senior High participated.

Elena Palomba, accompanied on the piano by Susan Walker, sings a tune from "The Sound of Music."

Johnny Johnson added his trademark to the Christmas concert with Santa's ho-ho-hos in "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Beth Scharf, Diane Talbert, Sally Driscoll and Dolores French sing the melody of "Amen" during a chorus rehearsal.

Baseball Upset Reds

Seniors presented two performances of A Pennant for the Kremlin on November 16 and 17. Mrs. Phyllis Cindric and Miss Sandra Pyle directed the production. Mr. Paul Beal supervised set decorations.

When Mikhail Deborin takes over the Chicago White Sox for the Kremlin, team members object. After hearing of pay raises and other rewards, the players decide to try for the pennant.

Vivian Calloway, news commentator, states on T. V. that the White Sox are turning Red when she sees them receiving issues of the Daily Worker. Bunny Beadle, player's representative, persuades Vivian to stop her anti-Sox campaign when he presents the newspapers to a fish merchant as wrapping for her wares.

Then Deborin and his daughter Tasia pose another problem to the Kremlin by becoming Americanized. To combat this trend, the Russian government sends Cubans to play in the World Series instead of the pennant-winning White Sox to insure that loyal Communists will play. Instead, the refugees request political asylum.

Although the team loses the series, Bunny wins Tasia and the play wins the hearts of the audience.

Mrs. Ianucci shows the Machados, lately arrived from Cuba, the generous gift of wrapping paper that the White Sox have donated to her business.

"Is old Russian custom," explains Deborin as he clasps Doc Bratton in a gigantic bear hug.

In an unbelievable wind-up to the World Series, the Dodgers finally win on a technicality after a near-riot between the team managers.

National Honor Society officers for 1967-68 were James Cascio, Beth Scharf, David Neilan and Scott McClintock.

Rotary Invites NHS To Special Meeting

Creating enthusiasm for scholarship, stimulating a desire to render services for the school and community, promoting worthy leadership, and encouraging the development of character in the student body were the objectives of the National Honor Society. Juniors and seniors attaining at least a B average were eligible for consideration. From this group ten per cent of the senior class and five per cent of the junior class were selected by vote of the entire senior high faculty.

Activities of the society included the installation and reception for new members in the latter part of April. Members also attended a spring luncheon as guests of the Somerset Rotary Club.

Officers for the 1967-68 school year were James Cascio, president; Scott McClintock, vice-president; Elizabeth Scharf, secretary; and David Neilan, treasurer.

Mrs. Pauline Glessner and Mr. Richard Flick sponsored the organization.

Journalism Staffs Privileged To Join

Quill & Scroll is an organization designed to encourage and reward individual achievement in journalism. Students in the upper one-third of their class who had written fifty inches of printed news copy or who had actively contributed to yearbook production were eligible for membership.

Selected yearbook journalism students were inducted during their senior year while qualified newspaper journalism students were admitted during their junior year.

Sponsors of the organization were Mrs. Phyllis Cindric and Mr. Jay Christner. Officers for the 1967-68 school year were Martin Beech, president; Barbara Pile, vice-president; Donna Whipperman, secretary; and Deborah Barron, treasurer.

Council Acts On Student Ideas, Opinions

Debra Gnegy, Linda Larimer and Roger Brubaker display a letter from our school's council-sponsored child, Juanito Gambito.

Comprised of a representative from each homeroom, the Student Council sponsored various projects intended to improve the well-being of Somerset Senior High students. President Donald Derencin and Adviser Mr. Ralph Egolf worked with the administration in an attempt to solve minor school problems.

Activities of the Council included scheduling dances in the cafeteria following home football and basketball games. TWIRP Week and Orange and Black Day continued as traditional Council-sponsored activities. Members of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes participated in a volleyball game planned by the Council. A proposal to publish printed menus for the cafeteria was considered and adopted by the administration.

For the third consecutive year the Council supported Juanito Gambito, our adopted Filipino child. Monthly letters, received from him were displayed in the main hall showcase. Vice-president James Tall, Secretary Linda Howard and Treasurer Sally Rankin completed this year's roster of officers.

Donald Derencin, James Tall, Sally Rankin and Linda Howard headed Student Council activities for the 1967-1968 school year.

ATHLETICS

What's it all about?
Once, sometimes twice, a week young men are rewarded for their hours of drudgery on the practice field or mat or court.
The prize is the thrill of competition.
Athletics can make a boy a man,
teaching him that a hard-fought loss is somehow worth more than an easy win.
We are here to compete.

Serving as managers for the 1967 football season were Bernard Urban, David Ross, David Neilan, David Pugh and Terry Christner.

Rounding end, George Sicheri heads for a sizable gain against Ferndale.

Games For Somerset

Getting back to the winning ways of Somerset Area football tradition, this year's Golden Eagle squad compiled a 7-2 mark under the guidance of Head Coach Carl Waugaman and his assistants Wilson Weaver, Richard Colliver and James McCall.

After an easy win over Purchase Line, the Eagles lost two straight to Bedford and Forest Hills. Then they exploded for six consecutive wins.

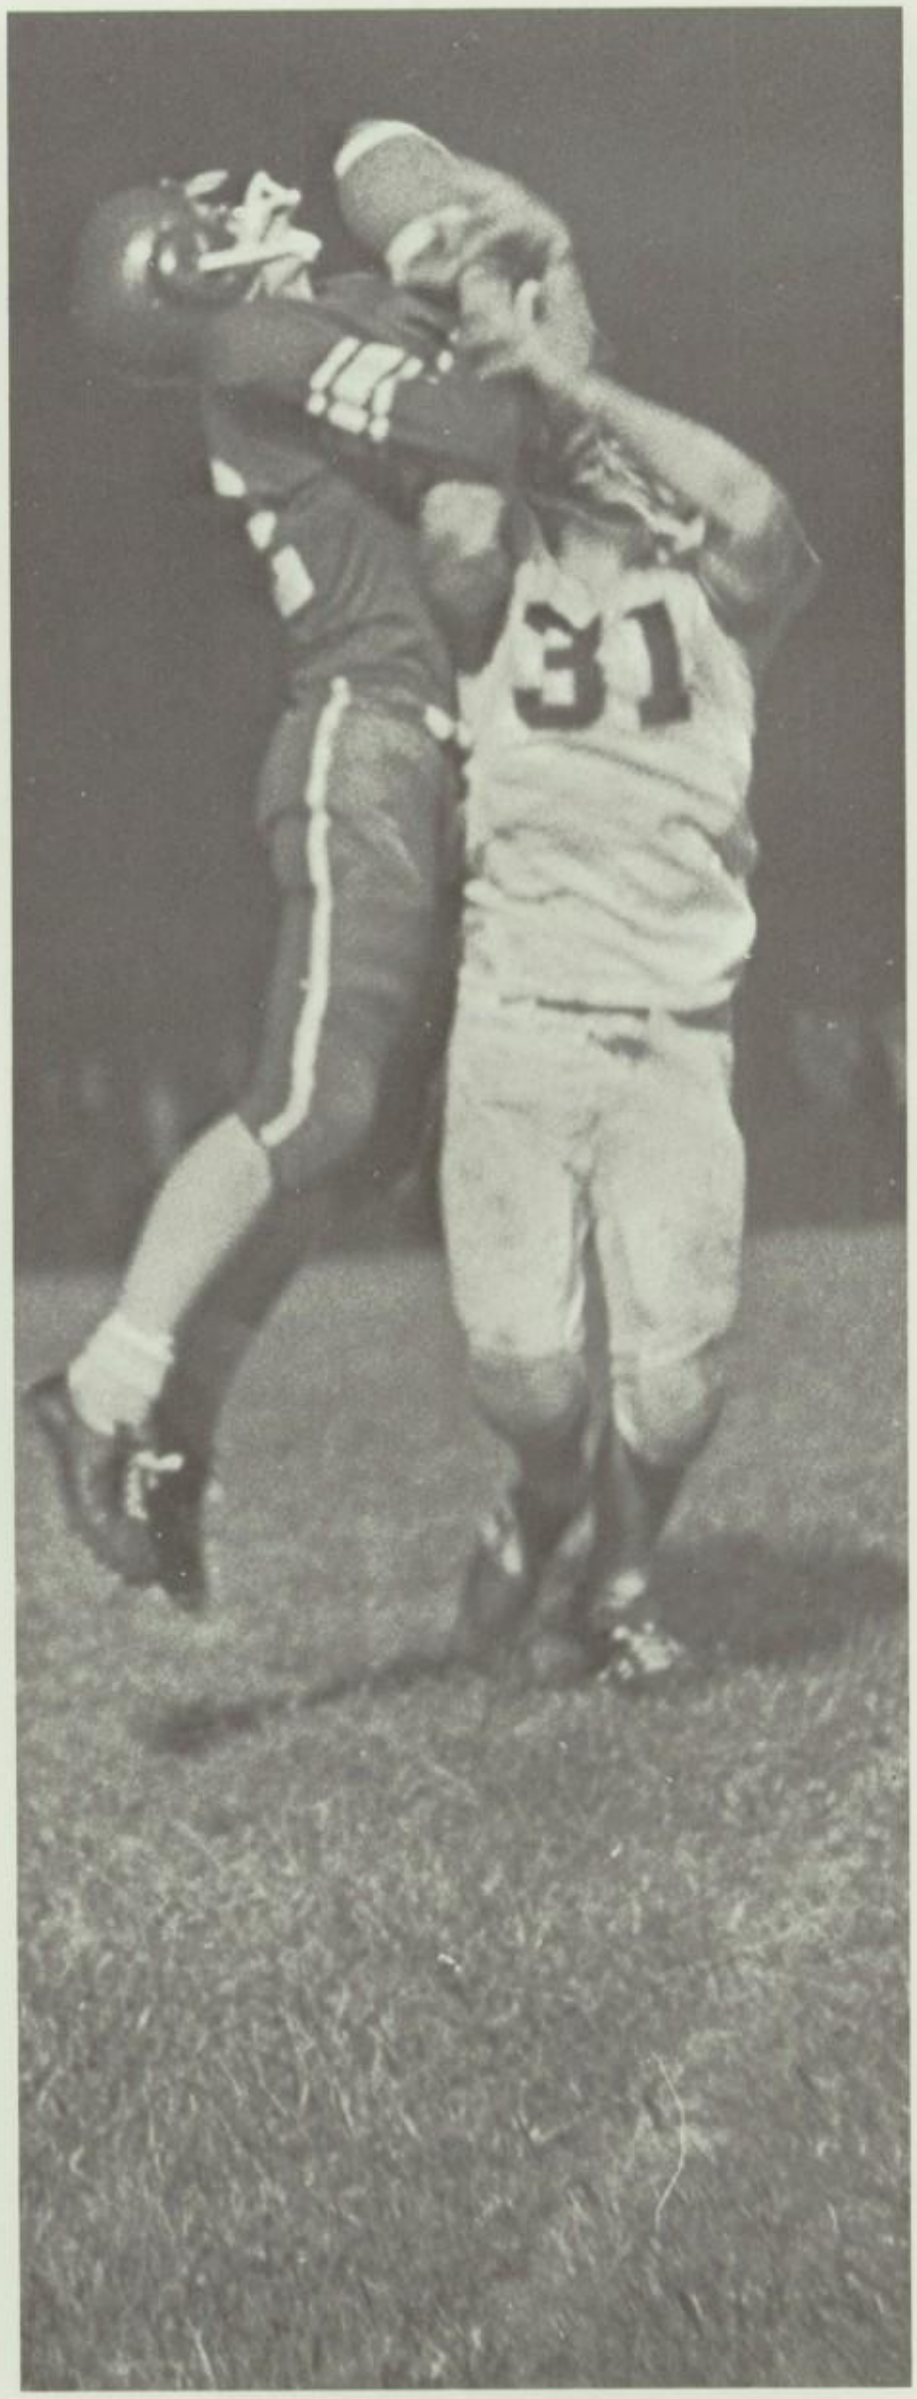
Several boys played key roles in making the season a success. Randy Urban and David Mapes added a new twist to the Somerset offense, a sound passing attack. Urban set a record for pass completions with 37, compiling a 54% average of completions, while Mapes set a record for pass receptions with 16 catches.

This helped the powerful ground attack and enabled Henry Zuccolotto, the Eagle's Tribune-Democrat All-Scholastic halfback, to pick up valuable yardage.

Another reason for the fine season was the rock-ribbed defense led by Dudley Urban, which yielded only 58 points all season and posted five shut-outs.

This successful year was a fitting tribute to Coach Waugaman, who retired after twenty years as "Mr. Football" to Somerset fans.

Quarterback Pete Urban rolls out behind the blocking of Charlie Francis.



Defensive back Charlie Francis fights his Bedford opponent for the ball.

Henry Zuccolotto is on his way to a big gain around the right side of the Ferndale defense.

Coach Waugaman makes the most of the half-time period of the Westmont game.

Uniontown Squeaks By SAHS 68 To 66

Handicapped by a lack of height and experience, the varsity Eagles countered with hustle and teamwork. Employing a pressure defense and a fast-breaking offense, Coach Chester Pfeffer's basketeers battled to a 8-10 season record.

After jumping to an early lead in the Tri-County League, the Birds dropped from their position by successive losses to Westmont and Windber. A second heartbreaking loss to Westmont, one to Ferndale and two losses to Richland were leavened by three victories to give the Golden Eagles a 6-6 league mark, good for fourth place in the Tri-County standings.

Highlighting the season was a non-league game with highly touted Uniontown. During the home contest, the Eagle cagers tied the previous state champions eleven times, only to lose in the closing seconds, 68-66.

While compiling a 10-8 record, the junior varsity squad gained valuable experience. Coaching the underclass squad were James Pfrogner and his assistant David McCall.

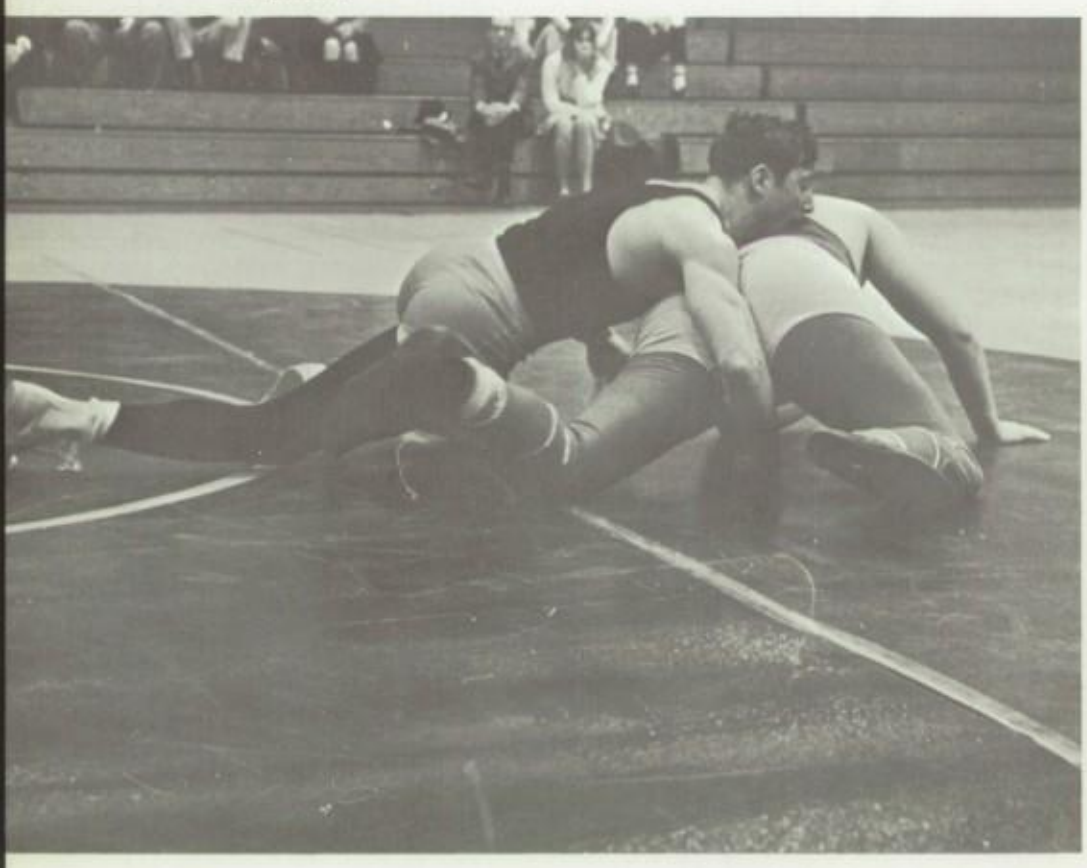
New Coaching Staff Builds Young Team

Coaches James McCall and Ray Shaulis along with co-captains Scott McClintock and Henry Zuccolotto look at the final score of an Eagle victory.

Ed Sicheri maneuvers for a pinning combination on his Bedford opponent.



By placing the emphasis on conditioning and wrestling basics, new head coach James McCall and assistant Ray Shaulis developed a young, aggressive wrestling team.

Consisting of five sophomores, two juniors and five seniors, the squad was co-captained by Scott McClintock and Henry Zuccolotto. Several injuries forced the coaches to juggle each week's starting line-up, resulting in a great deal of experience for younger grapplers. Thirteen matmen accumulated the eleven points necessary for a letter.

At the annual Christmas tournament held at Conemaugh Twp., Somerset placed third in a field of seven. Somerset's lone champion was Henry Zuccolotto, wrestling in the 165-pound class.

Season records showed the squad finishing with five wins and six losses. Highlighting the season was Scott McClintock's undefeated record of 9-0-0.

Mapes Outjumps School Records in '67

Pete Urban takes the lead against Everett in the 120-yard high hurdles.

In the triangular meet with Westmont and Conemaugh, Henry Zuccolotto finishes second by a hair in the 100-yard dash.

Twelve Eagle lettermen, nine to return this year, were the mainstay of the Eagles 1967 track squad.

Coaches James McCall and James Pfrogner, under head coach Richard Colliver, developed one of the youngest teams in Somerset's history. Aided by the return of five seniors, fourteen juniors and fifteen sophomores formed the nucleus of the team.

David Mapes established a new school record in the triple jump, breaking the previous mark of 39'7" set during the 1966 season. At the May 12th meet with Westmont and Conemaugh his jump of 41'4½" was recorded.

Three new events were added to District and State meets: the triple jump, the two-mile run and the two-mile relay. Somerset has an early start in these events, already having included them in local competition.

Eagle Golfers See Rebuilding Season

Hampered by rain, the 1967 golf team lost much pre-season practice time.

In their fourth year the Eagles hoped for a victorious team to follow a previously undefeated season.

Serving under Coach Chester Pfeffer and co-captains Douglas Berkley and James Cascio, the Eagles golf team played from Somerset Country Club.

After an early-season setback to Blairsville and Bishop McCort, our team garnered a win from Conemaugh and one from Windber.

Somerset then participated in the Dr. Wheeling Invitational Tournament held at Sunnehanna Country Club, where our team placed sixth out of ten.

Two wins and four losses was the season record posted by the Eagles.

Coach Pfeffer has a brighter outlook for next season with the return of the entire team. A group of junior high golfers promises to strengthen the squad by adding depth and experience.

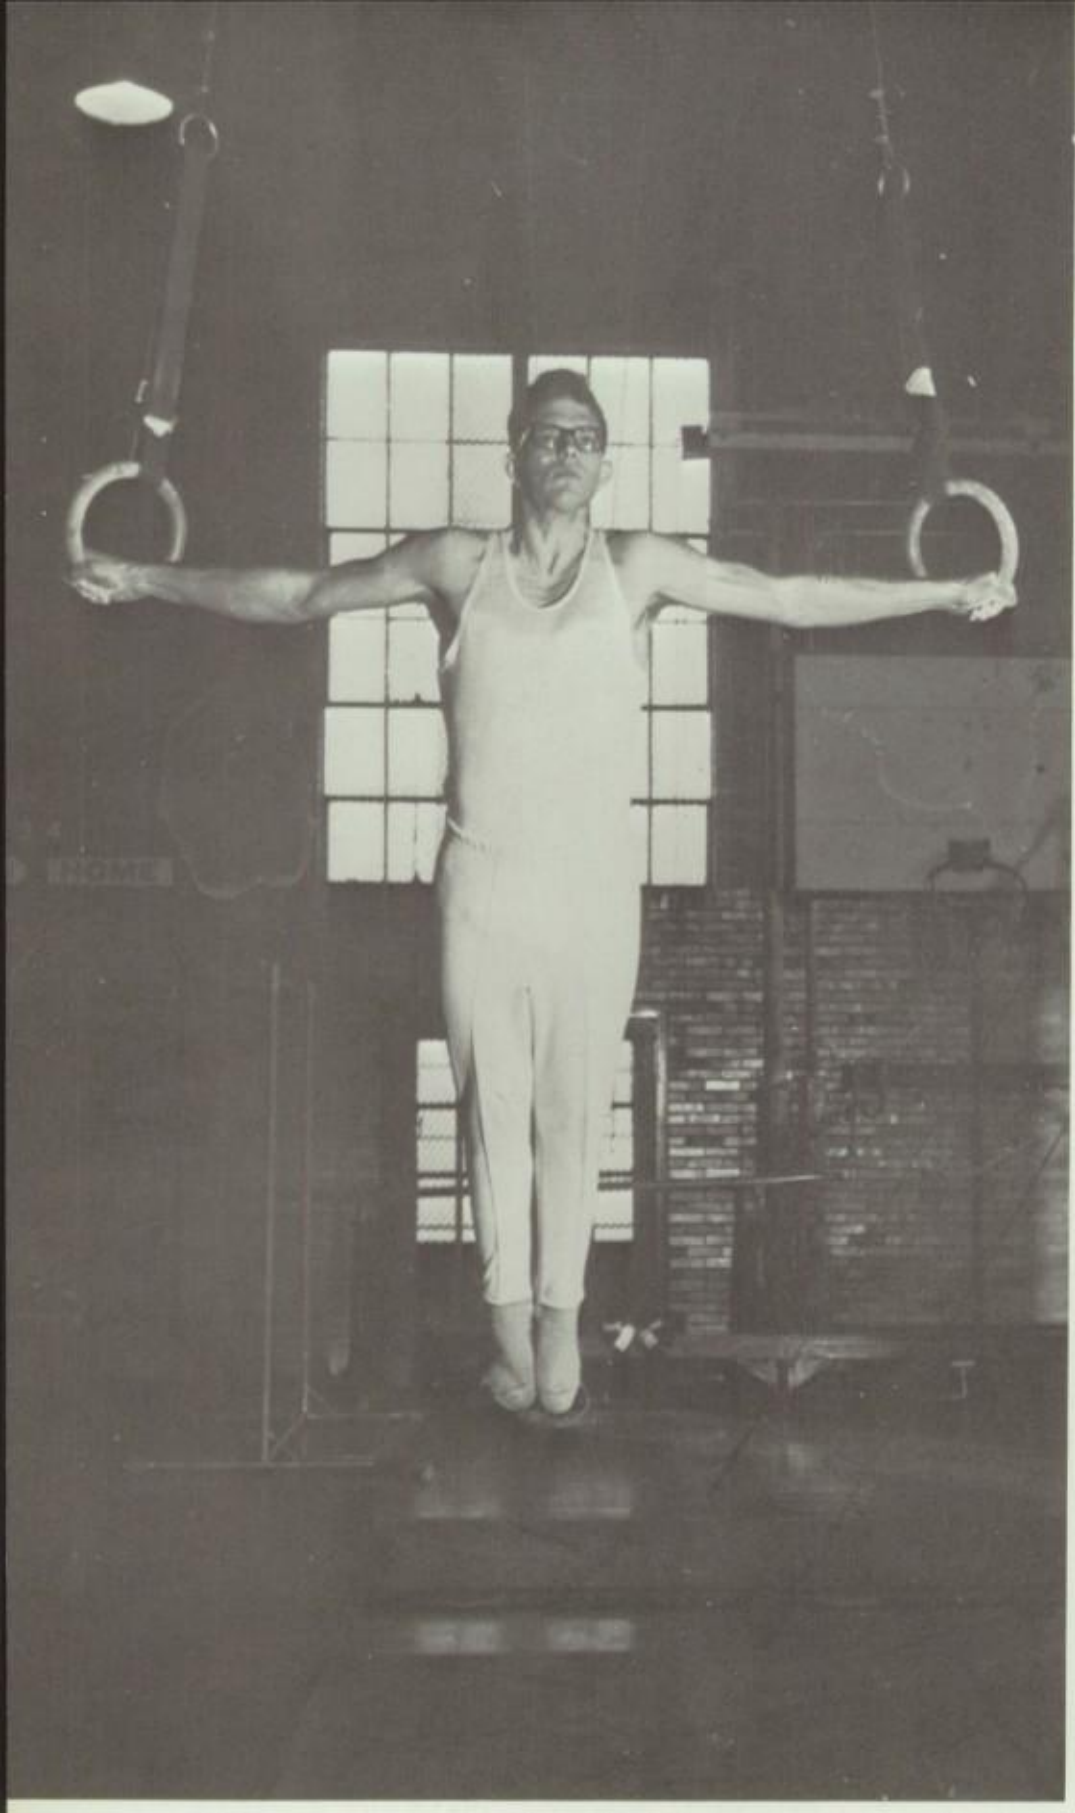
Gymnastics Squad Enters Competition

Under the direction of Mr. Edward Joseph, junior high gym teacher, the 1967-68 gymnastics team began its competition with six planned invitational meets.

This was the first year for all-male participation in the six major areas of competition; still rings, free exercise, parallel bars, side horse, long horse vaulting and horizontal bar. These areas act as forerunners of men's Olympic competition.

New apparatus, including the Olympic trampoline, balance beam, still rings, indoor track and parallel bars, was available for the team to work out on. Gymnasts entered competition wearing new uniforms.

Mr. Joseph stated, "Interscholastic gymnastics is here to stay at Somerset High School because of the interest shown by the administration, the faculty and the participants involved."



Mike Matthews masters the difficult iron cross on the still rings.

Practicing his form on the side horse is Freshman Jules Yancey.

CLASSES

What's it all about?
People and the interaction of their ideas:
this is the time-honored, good-natured caste system
we call school.
A school is the product of its people, just as the people are a product of their school.
Our environment must provide us with something to work and grow with,
so that we can contribute to it in turn.
We are here to live.

Seniors

Heading the 1967-68 senior class were Vice-President James Cascio, Class Sponsor Mr. Paul Beal, President Henry Zuccolotto, Treasurer Barbara Pile and Secretary Heather Walker.

The Fourmosts, a combo comprised of Bill Floyd, Jeff Johnson, Ed Troll and Marty Beech, were in demand for post-basketball dances and other social events in the community.

Before tackling the big slope at Hidden Valley, Hank Parke helps Jane Neilan adjust her skis.

Seniors of 1968 achieved the goals of leadership, scholarship and sportsmanship set by previous classes, the administration and themselves. Beth Scharf, National Merit Finalist, and five commended students maintained scholarship ideals. David Neilan qualified for the National Science Foundation Scholarship in math, and used it at Rollins College summer school in Winter Park, Florida.

Sportsmanship was demonstrated by participants of various athletic teams. Henry Zuccolotto was named to the Johnstown Tribune All-Star Football team.

James Cascio competed with eleven others for the position of national trustee of Key Club. Somerset County F.T.A. president was Carol Gerhardt. These two among many others represented the leadership qualities of the class.

Totaling $13,476.00, the annual senior magazine sale partially financed publication of the 1968 Eaglet.

A Pennant for the Kremlin brought recognition as a cast of 53 presented the comedy.

Maple Princess Sally Miller was Somerset's contestant in the County Maple Queen Contest held in Johnstown on February 14, where she captured the title of Queen Maple XXI.

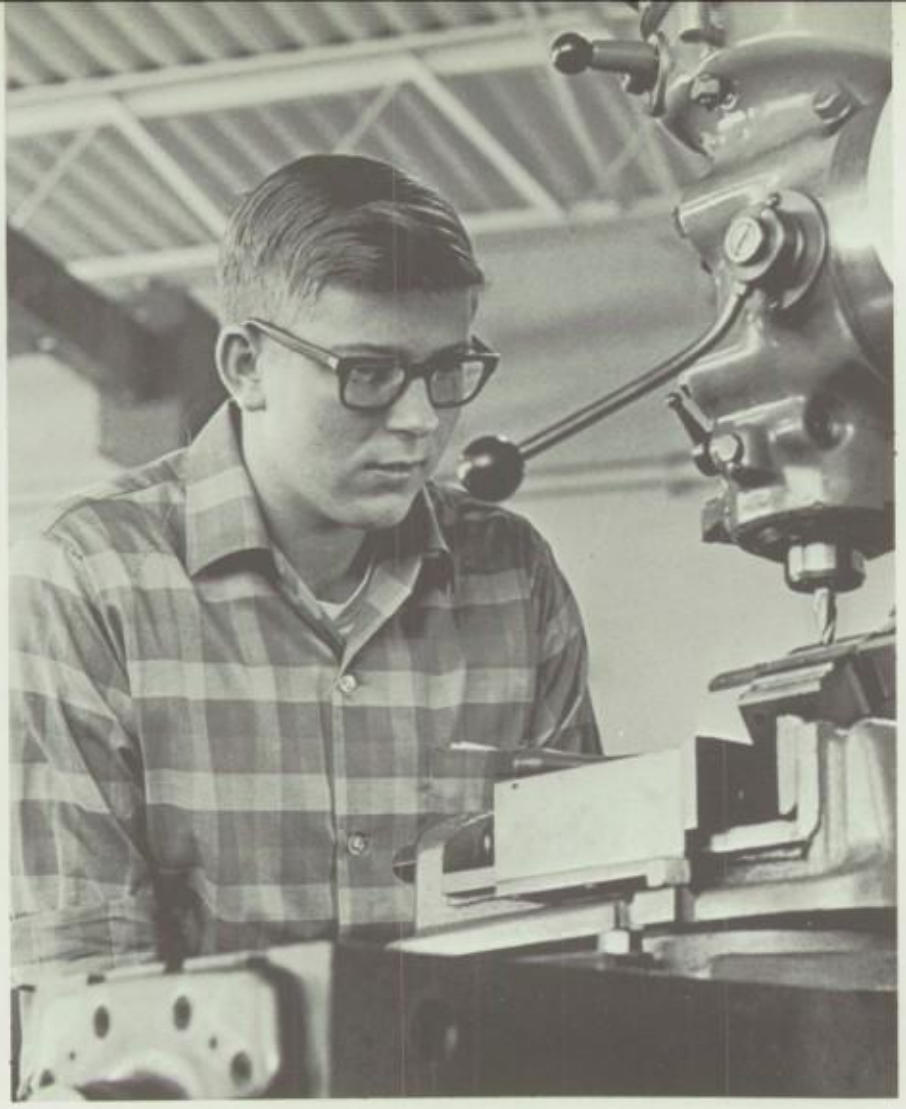
A civil defense course conducted by Mr. Charles Morocco was attended by 143 seniors.

Baccalaureate and Commencement symbolized our final steps in high school. Now we graduating seniors, in a new phase of our lives, will continue to ask the question, "What's it all about?"

Departments Select Outstanding Seniors

Outstanding vocational home economics senior for 1968 was Gloria Rhodes. Winner of the Betty Crocker Award, she served as president of FHA in her senior year. Gloria qualified for her junior home economics degree and also received her FHA chapter degree. Her plans for the future are incomplete.

At the head of her class, Nora Elizabeth Scharf was the outstanding academic senior for 1968. Secretary of National Honor Society and news editor of The Eagle's Echo, Beth was also a National Merit Scholarship finalist. She plans to attend Penn State, where she will major in home economics.



Terry Boyer was named the outstanding industrial vocational senior for 1968. His interests include hunting, fishing and baseball. After graduation Terry plans to attend the Educational Institute of Pittsburgh to become a design draftsman.

Outstanding vocational agriculture senior for 1968 was Lee Shaffer. Lee was selected to attend the 1967 FFA Convention at Kansas City. During his senior year he received a red ribbon at the State Forage Progress Field Days hay judging contest. His future plans include a farming career.

Nancy Lephart was chosen the outstanding business education senior for 1968. She served as recording secretary for the Future Business Leaders of America and as a member of the Eaglet business staff. Nancy plans to attend Shippensburg State College.

Finalist Beth Scharf and commended students Dave Neilan, James Cascio, Amy Pucci, Sam Halverson and Scott McClintock received recognition in the National Merit Scholarship test.

Seniors Represent SASHS At Local Clubs

During the past year, selected seniors exemplifying character, leadership, scholarship and service had an opportunity to speak at the local service club meetings. Monthly, the Lion's Club, the Rotary, the Kiwanis Club, the Jaycees, the Soroptimists and the Business and Professional Women's Club invited one senior boy or girl to attend their meetings. At the end of the month, these representatives gave short talks on subjects in which they were interested.

Student Lions, Jaycees, and Soroptimists were elected by their fellow seniors while B.P.W. girls were selected by the faculty. Senior Kiwanians were chosen by the members of the Key Club.

Senior B.P.W. girls: Standing: Beth Scharf, Beth Morocco, Dolores French, Wanita Walters, Linda Gnegy. Seated: Amy Pucci, Pam Moyer, Donna Knupp

Senior Kiwanians: Standing: Mitchell Peck, Paul Blauch, Tony Oppegard, Marvin Barndt, Fred Oehling Seated: Richard Friedline, Edward Troll, Barry Day

Senior Soroptimists were Donna Whipperman, Sally Rankin, Nancy Miller, Barbara Miller, Barbara Pile, Heather Walker, Linda Baker and Cyri Alder.

Senior Jaycees were Marvin Barndt, Douglas Berkley, Donald Derencin, James Cascio, David Mapes, David Pugh, James Hostetler and John Foor.

Senior Rotarians: Standing: Dudley Urban, Scott McClintock, Henry Zuccolotto, Jerry Stover, Henry Parke, Donald Miller Seated: Tony Oppegard, James Tall, David Neilan

Outstanding Juniors

Composed of 279 students, this junior class was the first to receive class rings in January instead of April.

Athletes made their presence felt in varsity football. Of the 17 juniors on the team, eight became lettermen. Cheering the team were junior varsity cheerleaders Vicki Brant and Denise Custer and varsity cheerleaders Gail Foust, Gail Gorman, Georgia Lichty, Susan Miller and substitute Kathy Knepper. Two juniors served as majorettes: Head Majorette Jane Morocco and Patricia Fisher.

In February newspaper journalism students in the upper third of their class who had accumulated 50 inches of print by reporting for The Somerset Daily American became members of Quill and Scroll. Fourteen juniors were inducted into National Honor Society in April.

Class sponsor Mr. Thomas Fridy commented, "The junior class is a capable group of students that is an asset to the senior high."

Sophomores Show

After becoming familiar with the building, tenth graders eagerly accepted the responsibilities of high school life. Numbering 305, the class of 1970 is the largest ever to enter Somerset Area Senior High School.

Advisor Mr. Garvin Kissinger aptly described them as "extremely enthusiastic." Sophomore boys were active in all sports, making their presence felt among upperclassmen during the football, basketball, wrestling and track seasons. Junior varsity cheerleaders Suzy Younkin, Sandy Benedict, Connie Aultz and Mary Hauger supported the squads at all athletic events. Performing their routines with the band were sophomore majorettes Jane Stoy and Joyce Ludy with pompette Sherry Saylor.

Sophomores chose as their Soph-Senior theme "Over the Rainbow." Class President Mark Pile, Advisor Mr. Kissinger and General Chairman Joanna Glessner organized the committees, which on November 10 gave the senior class a long remembered dance.

Sponsor Mr. Kissinger, Treasurer Brad Sechler, Secretary Jane Stoy, Vice-president Randy Cober and President Mark Pile headed sophomore activities.

During her music lesson Karen Stahl listens while Student Teacher Mr. Deremer reviews the fingering of a difficult passage.

JUNIOR HIGH

What's it all about?
The junior high is where it all starts.
Here habits are made, talents uncovered and the slow maturity from boys and girls to men and women begun.
We are here to grow.

Freshmen Prepare For

Freshmen class officers were Larry Barron, vice-president; Mark Martz, secretary; Samuel Crouse, president; and Craig Hauger, treasurer.

Ninth graders spent their last year at the junior high learning what it's all about.

Freshmen had the opportunity to take their first year of German, French or Spanish. They also decided which curriculum field to pursue at the senior high.

Freshmen showed potential and actual team effort in football and basketball. Highlighting spring sports was the annual track field day, where freshmen competed with the underclassmen and won several of the events.

In May, Mr. Weaver sponsored a trip to the State Capitol in Harrisburg for the 306-member class, where students met representatives and senators and saw the General Assembly in action.

On Awards Day a boy and a girl showing leadership qualities were named recipients of the Faculty Awards. Several other citations, including the English, Civics, Mathematics, Algebra and General Science Awards, were presented to deserving ninth graders.

Eighth Grade Student

Eighth grade class officers were President John Runner, Secretary Patricia Ludy, Vice President Jon Jacobs and Treasurer John Miller.

Lacking a sponsor, the eighth grade was led by its elected officers, President John Runner, Vice President Jon Jacobs, Secretary Patricia Ludy and Treasurer John Miller.

Among their activities, eighth grade Student Council members kept a calendar of school events up to date.

The class of 1972 had boys active on the football and wrestling squads, while during the basketball season eighth grade boys participated in a tournament with other schools in the county. Starting players were Jerry Barron, Jeff Braeseker, Bill Clark, Jeff Custer, Chris Hay, Jay Knupp, John Miller, Allen Rankin and John Runner, who were coached by Mr. David McCall. Susan Koontz, Judy Landis and Patricia Ludy represented their class as majorettes.

At the end of the term American Legion Citizenship Awards were presented to the boy and the girl who excelled in leadership, character and citizenship.

During their study of plants in science class, Linda Shaffer and Sally Miller watch intently as Stacey Hanks explains the structure of a stem.

Seventh Graders Begin

Leading the seventh grade class were President Diane Walker, Vice President Craig Sprock, Secretary Daniel Mickey and Treasurer Valerie Marker.

From three elementary schools 234 seventh grade students learned what junior high life is all about.

In place of a class sponsor, homeroom teachers Mrs. Marie Mostoller, Mr. Blaine Baker, Mr. James Clay, Mr. Robert Hottle, Mrs. Sally Rhodes, Miss Beatrice Nichols and Mr. William Kallman led the group.

Ten students were members of the wrestling squad, the only sport open to the seventh grade. Excelling sportsmen were Allen Otto, David Miller, Brian Hottle and Ralph Logue.

Leading the class was President Diane Walker, who described them as a "fine group of students". Other officers were Vice President Craig Sprock, Secretary Daniel Mickey and Treasurer Valerie Marker.

Thirty eight class members participated in band. Outstanding were Connie Arnold, Robert Dice, Susan Poorbaugh, Craig Sprock and David Weigle.

During the study of Greece in history class Vickie Long and Mary Beth Kline shield Allen Long.

Ronald Kimmel finds that he must get an admit from the office when late for class.

Junior High Orchestra Unique In Area

Members of the Junior High Boys' Octet were (back) Jeff Burkett, Terry Koontz, (second) Jeff Welsh, Gary Bailey, Randy Welker, Robert Moyer, (front) Jeff Ankney and David Ankeny.

Christmas and spring concerts were presented to the student body by the junior high music groups.

Mr. Robert Griffith directed the one hundred fifty-five member band, which participated in many community activities, including the Winter Carnival and the Christmas parade. Students joining the Band, Orchestra, or Chorus gained experience for the advanced music program of the senior high.

Mr. John Dice led the mixed chorus with attention to the Girls' and Boys' Octets. Rebecca Brailler was the Chorus accompanist.

Mr. Arther Pepe conducted the Orchestra, one of the few junior high orchestras in Central Western Pennsylvania. Two members of the Orchestra, Ann Brubaker and Michael Cascio, attended District Orchestra at State College Area High School in January.

Chorus accompanist Becky Brailler awaits her cue from Mr. Dice.

Girls' Octet, composed of Donna Mostoller, Jeanne Barbera, Carol Blair, Melissa Moyer, Connie Kimmel, Ann Brubaker, Janice Knieriem and Rosemary Raszewski, practice their selection for the spring concert with Mr. Dice.

Rosemary Raszewski, Michael Cascio, Ann Brubaker and Mary Dosch proved their ability in the junior high Orchestra.

Section leaders of the junior high Band were (top) Sally Walker, Melissa Moyer, Rebecca Brallier, Russel Miller, (bottom) Elizabeth Weimer and Robert Moyer.

Junior high student council members were (rear) Joni Stumpf, Allen Rankin, Pat Morin, Dan Floyd, George Fisher, Amy Lucas, Jerry Barron, Craig Hauger, Elaine Brant, Chris Hay, President Larry Barron (second) Daniel Mickey, Bradley Whipperman, Gloria Brant, Belinda Walker, Donna Pile, Sally Whipperman, Karen Rhoads, (front) John Miller, David Bowers, Tim Hartzel, Jay Knupp, Ernest Charlesworth and Craig Sprock.

Mr. Weaver, advisor, with council officers Elaine Brant, secretary; Larry Barron, president; Christopher Hay, vice president; and Craig Hauger, treasurer, revise the junior high dress code.

Chess Club Secretary Robert Mayer and Advisor Mr. Bruno watch as President Larry Barron and Treasurer Cliff Glovier analyze their positions.

Vice President Alexis Judy, President Debra Jones and Secretary Penny O'Conner served as officers of the Library Club.

Junior High Presents Varied Activities

With twenty-five members and alternates plus Advisor Mr. Wilson Weaver, the Student Council's motto was "Action". Among many projects, it supported a Korean orphanage with candy sale profits. Contributions were made to the Christmas seal campaign through a one-cent school postal service for Christmas cards.

Library Club was another active group. Members assisted Mrs. Finnette Egolf as junior librarians.

Headed by Miss Sue Saylor, the Pep Club conducted money-making bake sales, caroled at Christmas and boosted the morale of the Little Eagles with pep signs and chants.

Miss Saylor also sponsored the cheerleaders, who sported new pompoms, megaphones and vests.

Junior High majorettes, directed by Mr. Robert Griffith, performed at pep assemblies, concerts, football games and parades.

Chess Club members, assisted by Mr. Louis Bruno, sharpened their playing skills in intramural and inter-scholastic matches.

Cheerleaders for the 1967-68 school term were Michelle Stark, Vicki Shroyer, Donna Mostoller, Captain Joni Stumpf, Linda Schrock, Amy McClintock and Denise Lichty.

Guiding the Pep Club through their many activities were Jill Berkley, vice president; Elaine Brant, president; Miss Saylor, advisor; Melissa Moyer, secretary; and Sally Whipperman, treasurer.

Junior high cheerleaders receive pointers from Nancy Houser, varsity cheerleader, as she helps Joni Stumpf with a split.

Junior high majorettes were (front) Patricia Ludy, Sally Boxler, Susan Koontz, Judy Landis, (back) Jackie Lease, Michelle Mosholder, Head Kaylynn Saylor, Barbara Stutzman and Rosemary Raszewski.

Junior High Sports Provide Experiences;

Junior high athletes participated in four sports. Head junior high football coach Joseph Maslak and assistant Blaine Baker were pleased by the team effort displayed by the 57 boys. Winding up the season with a win over Garfield in the last 40 seconds on a 55-yard punt return by Jeffrey Welsh, the Little Eagles captured a 4-2-1 record.

Competing in four matches this season, the wrestlers had to "practice a long time because of a very tough schedule," according to head coach Mr. Bingman. Outstanding among the 28 matmen were: George Fisher, Barry Mapes, Craig Murray, John Stanczyk and Clarence Trout.

Assisted by David McCall, head coach James Clay led the basketball team of 18 freshmen and 22 eighth graders to their first win over Windber, 50-41. Outstanding members of the squad were two freshmen, Sam Crouse and Mark Martz.

Boasting an undefeated season, the 1967 track team under coach James McCall set three records. Holding new records are Mike Long, Larry Sarver and Greg Zearfoss.

Members of the Junior High track team for the 1966-67 season were (top) Roger Klink, Eric Rush, James Mapes, David Ankeny, David Lowry, Rodney Gallagher, Thomas Lane, Scott Boyer, Greg Gardner, Mike Long, (second) Bill Kessen, Greg Zearfoss, James Witt, Carey Klink, Marlin Hottle, Jeff Welsh, Clark Gross, Mark Pile, Randy Cober, Coach James M cCall, (first) David Rose, David Baltzer, Dennis Baker, Ron Weller, Carl Fritz, Kerry Metzger, Dennis Barron, Roger Young, John Stanczyk and Larry Sarver.

Teach Cooperation, Good Sportsmanship

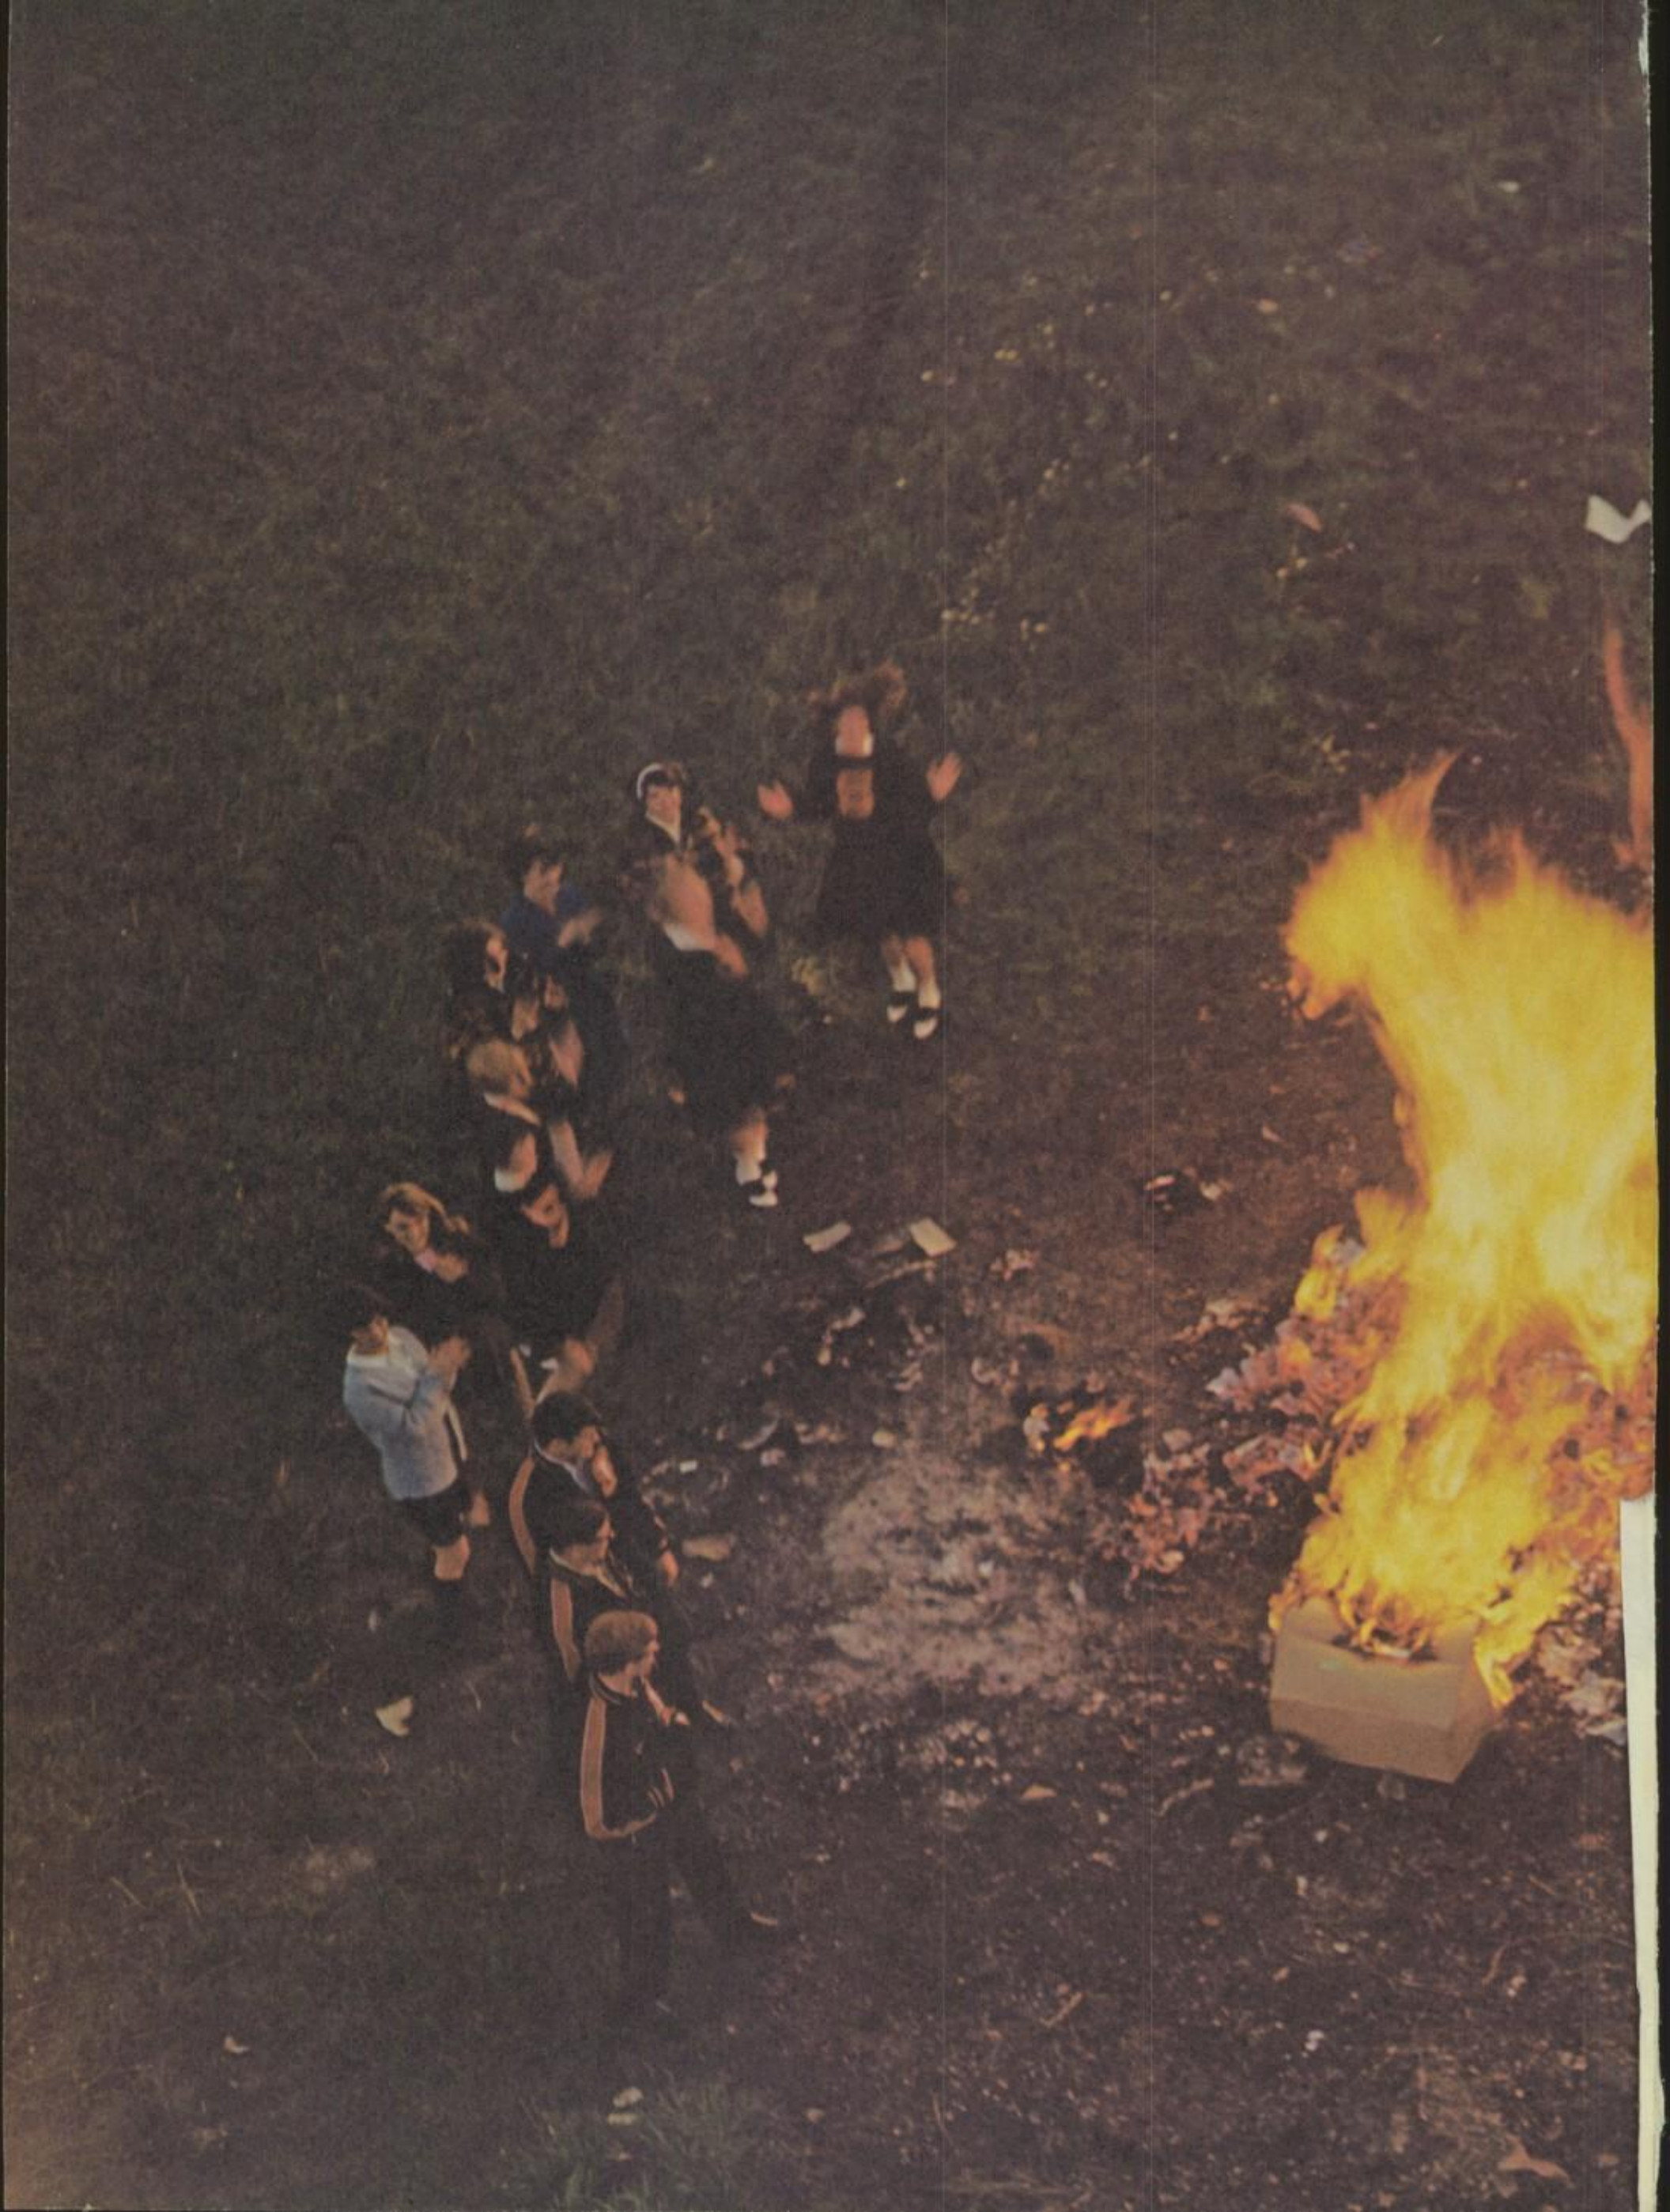
WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT? Since school is as much a state of mind as it is the physical, our words and pictures are intended only to serve as stimuli to the reader's imagination. Each person's answer to our question is unique, since it is his interpretation of the people, places and events we have here recorded.


This book, as any other book, is not a finshed product entire in itself. It is raw material for the mind.
